Almcrants: 'Disharmony With Council'

Says Action In Best Interest Of Mill Valley

Mill Valley City Mgr. A. E. Almcrants said today that "certain disharmony" between himself and the city council preceded his resignation announced yesterday.

In view of the disharmony, "my action was in the best interest of the city," he said.

Almcrants, who has been employed by the city for 15 years, 12 as city manager, resigned effective Dec. 31.

PHONE CALLS

He said that he has received many phone calls since the announcement, but knew of no movement underway to keep him at the post.

Mayor Joseph F. Sheeks said the only calls he has gotten on the resignation have been from the Independent-Journal.

Council Michael Wornum is out of town, but his wife said today that he had received several calls since the resignation.

SECOR SHOCKED

Almcrants did not announce his plans, but said he had "certain things in mind," and would like to stay in Mill Valley. "I have a great affection for Mill Valley," he said.

Councilman William M. Secor said yesterday that he was "surprised and shocked" at Almcrants' resignation.

He said he couldn't guess why Almcrants would resign. "I want to wish him well," he said. "I'm sure he's tried very hard. I think he's to be commended."

Secor is one of three councilman the Independent-Journal could not reach early yesterday for comment on the resignation. The others were Councilman George Blackwell and Michael Wornum.

Blackwell said later yesterday, "I'm very sorry to see him go. I have known Al over an eight-period, on four different councils. I wish him the best of luck."

'Freedom Cakes' Aiding Civil Rights Crusade

Tamalpais High School students will continue selling "freedom cakes" on campus next week, profits to be sent to Negro leader Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., in Birmingham, Ala., to be used in the civil rights crusade.

Seventy-five were sold since Wednesday, basketball coach Edward Chavez said today. Claudette Hamilton is chairman of the program which was organized by Chris Schuepbach, student body president, and Creighton Wyatt, rally commissioner.

Business is good, Chavez said, with cake being sold at 10 cents a piece at "freedom stations" during lunch periods.

He added that "one girl gave me a cake one morning, then bought it back for $2 for her father's birthday. Others bring in money saying 'I can't bake very well.'"

Talk-outs were held at the school since race tensions began Monday. Three have been held at the school and one at a teacher's home for 25 students.

"We are trying to get the kids themselves to realize they have to go out and do something positive," Chavez explained. "I think the kids understand the problems. They are trying to do something about it."

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) — The Fischer quintuplets are two weeks old today and doing fine.

Ole Miss Pistol Toter Fined $100

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Cleve McDowell, 21, who was expelled from the University of Mississippi for carrying a pistol in his pocket, today was fined $100 by a justice of the peace.

McDowell, Ole Miss' lone Negro student, pleaded innocent. His attorney filed notice of appeal and said he was also appealing McDowell's expulsion last Tuesday to the board of trustees of institutions of higher learning.

The charge — carrying a concealed deadly weapon — carried a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and $100 fine.

Hearing On Phone Rate Cut Slated

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A motion to order Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. to reduce its rates by 31.2 million dollars a year will be taken up by the Public Utilities Commission when it meets Oct. 2 in San Francisco.

The motion was made by PUC staff counsel William Roche yesterday who said the PUC staff found the company was earning a 8.45 per cent rate of return, which should be reduced to the 6.75 per cent ruled as a reasonable rate by the commission in 1958.

Jury Rules Glover Sane; Sentence Due

Robert G. Glover, 31, a convict who already had been found guilty of assault on another San Quentin inmate, yesterday was termed "sane" by a Marin jury.

The next step will be consideration by the jury of the sentence to be imposed on Glover, who stabbed a fellow convict on Feb. 5 with a sharpened brass rod. Arguments will begin Tuesday in superior court on whether the jury should recommend a sentence of Glover to death or to a life term without possibility of parole for nine years.

Glover showed no emotion in court when the jury returned the verdict at 7:45 p.m. yesterday after four hours and 45 minutes of deliberation. The trial has been marked by outbursts and name calling by the defendant, who has spent about 12 years of the last 15 years in prisons.

The death sentence may be imposed after conviction of a life termer, which Glover already is, for assault. Glover has been in San Quentin since 1958 on a charge of armed robbery, with previous convictions of sex perversion and escaping from other prison facilities.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales is prosecuting the case; William O. Weissich is defense attorney.

U.S. Buying Huge Point Reyes Parcel

$5,725,000 To Be Paid Over 3-Year Period

Federal purchase contract for the 7,714-acre Bear Valley Ranch, the biggest single holding in the proposed Point Reyes National Seashore, was announced by the regional office of the National Park Service in San Francisco yesterday.

A purchase contract, signed by owner Grace H. Kelham of San Francisco, calls for payment of $5,725,000 over a three-year period. Parcels that have been divided for the three-stage purchase total 1,427 acres, 3,314 acres and 2,973 acres.

USE RETAINED

Acting regional park director Keith Neilson, who announced the purchase, said the owner will retain the use of the first 1,427 acres for a full year after the land is deeded to the federal government.

If the deed were signed this month, for instance, it would not be until September, 1964, until the government could take possession. Then roads and facilities would have to be installed before the seashore could be opened to the public.

The Bear Valley Ranch is the hub of the park project. Park officials have been leasing one of the ranch buildings for temporary offices.

OCEAN FRONTAGE

The ranch, stretching from a point near Olema to the coast has five miles of ocean frontage and three miles of frontage on Bear Valley Road. Entrance to the park will be near the present ranch buildings. (See photo page 23)

The ranch is a haven for wildlife, including deer, bobcats, raccoons and many species of birds.

This is the third purchase announced so far in the park acquisition program. First purchase was the Heims Ranch and second was Drakes Beach Estates. The Bear Valley purchase brings total federal acquisition to 13,049 acres with a total expenditure of $8,603,000.

Approximately 30,000 acres is needed for the park.

Drugs Suspected In 2 Burglaries

San Rafael police were investigatting today whether any narcotics were stolen from two San Rafael doctor's offices last night by burglars.

Eugene R. Skinner, a janitor, called police at 3 a.m. today to report that the offices of Dr. Robert C. West and Dr. Robert D. Dunbar at 612 D Street had been ransacked.

Entry, police said, was made by opening the louvered window on the door to the office of Dr. West. Forty to fifty pry marks were observed on the door connecting the two offices, police said.

Dam Is Dedicated At Whiskeytown

President Praises National Seashore

COMBINED AP & UPI

WHISKEYTOWN—President John F. Kennedy, who flew to Whiskeytown today, paid tribute to water and dedicated a reservoir and dam in this mountain gold rush locale.

Kennedy, speaking before an estimated crowd of 10,000 persons, said:

"Every time we bet on the future of this country, we win."

He noted that the Whiskeytown project was blocked for years by opponents but predicted it would—like Grand Coulee Dam—pay for itself in future benefits.

"I'm proud of it," he said.

In Tacoma, Wash., yesterday the president pleaded for more projects such as the proposed national recreation area around Whiskeytown Dam and the Point Reyes National Seashore in Marin.

Point Reyes and two similar projects on the East and Gulf coasts, he said, "are the first major addition to our national park system in 16 years."

'NON-POLITICAL'

Kennedy, on an announced "non-political" tour, did do some politicking.

At Whiskeytown he said the policies of the Eisenhower administration would have made the multi-purpose dam an impossibility.

The chief executive spoke of changing times and how leaders of the conservation movement 50 years ago had much simpler problems than tasks facing those today in the fields of irrigation, reclamation and setting aside lands for recreation.

"The country is changing," he said. To support this statement, he noted how the work week had moved from 58 hours to the present statutory level of 40 hours.

WORK REDUCED

"As machines take more and more jobs from men," he said, "we are going to see the work week reduced."

This, he said, made protection and development of natural resources increasingly important.

Among listeners was a group of 29 girls from the tiny town of Hayfork, 32 miles west of the damsite, who hiked to the ceremonies arriving early today.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, traveling with Kennedy, pledged to weld California Democrats into "one great organized campaign" to help him carry the state in 1964.

The governor, who stayed overnight with Kennedy at Lassen Volcanic National Park and flew on with him to Las Vegas, said he told the president that he could win in California.

CARD SENT HOME BY THE NUMBERS

NAPA (AP) — Ralph Armstrong, a local auto dealer vacationing in Paoli, Ind., began musing about numbers.

He addressed a postcard to his residence, thus:

On the first line he wrote 564-28-833, his Social Security number.

On the second line, 707,-226-6291, his telephone number.

On the third, 94558, his postal zip code.

The card was in his mail box when he returned home.

Parking Space Fight Ends With Arrest

Willis J. Fowler Jr., 2015 Bridgeway, Sausalito, got mad last night when someone beat him out of a parking space in downtown Sausalito, police said.

He backed up his car, police reported, hooking bumpers with one driven by Reinhold Meric, 510 Throckmorton Avenue, Mill Valley, who had, reportedly, just whipped into the parking space that Fowler wanted.

The Fowler car hooked bumpers with the Meric car, dragging the Meric car forward into another car, denting fenders and bumpers all around, police said.

Fowler, apparently in a conciliatory mood, got out of his car and went back to ask Meric in for a friendly drink, police said.

Meric declined. Fowler yanked a cigarette out of Meric's mouth and pushed it back in, hot end first.

Meric complained to police who arrested Fowler on assault and battery charges on a citizen's complaint.

Rusk In Parley To End War Threat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk held a lengthy conference this afternoon with the Russian and British foreign ministers to discuss new ways to lessen the danger of nuclear war in Europe.

It was the first session of the big three ministers since they met in Moscow at the Aug. 5 signing of the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

HOT SPELL IS BROKEN IN MARIN

The hottest spell of two seasons, summer and fall, was broken in Marin County yesterday when temperatures tumbled to only slightly above normal.

Highs throughout the county dropped 8 to 13 degrees from Thursday's scorcher.

Yesterday's high was an unofficial 97 reported by J. L. Chase in Santa Venetia.

San Rafael had a top of 89 as compared to 98 Thursday. Other highs were San Anselmo, 93; Novato, 88; Fairfax, 85, and Woodacre, 86.

The forecast is for above normal temperatures and no rain through Wednesday.

Southern California's blistering heat wave continued with temperatures still above the 100-degree mark yesterday.

Los Angeles had a 106 high reading and a low of 84 at 4 a.m.

Schools were closed, high school football games were canceled, business activity slackened, cars stalled with vapor lock and farmers reported heavy losses in poultry, rabbits, avocados, lemons, vegetables and walnuts.

One-Way Bridge Toll Study Gets Additional Funds

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board yesterday authorized the expenditure of an added $2,500 to complete a study of traffic loads on the bridge for possible installation of one-way tolls.

The study, originally scheduled to be completed by yesterday, has been delayed because of the difficulty in determining from which direction the greatest number of cars come.

The board had already allocated $10,000 for the study.

Director Thomas D. Hardcastle of Novato said that the study might now be completed in two months.

The board agreed to recommend to the State Division of Highways, as requested by Jack Craemer, president of the Redwood Empire Assn., to plant Redwood trees in the Vista Point parking area on the Marin County side of the bridge.

She appeared lifeless when her mother, Mrs. Charles White, pulled her out. The mother and neighbor could not revive the child. Legislature Scandal Names Are Demanded

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A report on call girls, lobbyists and lawmakers got the back of the hand from the two Democratic leaders of the legislature yesterday—but a Republican demanded names.

The report was termed inconclusive by Senate President Pro Tem Hugh M. Burns and Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh.

"On the basis of this report, we conclude no further action is appropriate," the two Democrats said.

At the same time, Assembly Republican Leader Charles J. Conrad said it is time to publish the names of legislators—if any—involved in call girl scandals.

Conrad said the report, which came from Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, was an indictment of the entire legislature.

"Damn it, if he's going to make these statements let's get down to cases," Conrad said. "There are 120 of us in the legislature. How many are involved, if any? Who are they?"

Mosk issued the report Wednesday after three months investigation. The probe was brought on by charges that lobbyists had brought in call girls to influence special legislation.

The report did not make any such finding—as far as influencing legislation was concerned. It did say, however, that lavish lobbyist spending and call girls operating in the capital city hotels cast aspersions on the moral flavor of the legislature.

Mosk, a Democrat, concluded that "a thorough study of the role of the legislative advocate (lobbyist) and the relationship of legislators to lobbyists would seem to be indicated."

Burns and Unruh replied:

"If the vast resources of the attorney general's office cannot find facts in the morass of rumor, speculation, private admission, and half truth, which the report alludes to, we believe it highly unlikely that such facts exist."

Rep. Clausen Rips Into Water Plan

UKIAH (UPI) — Rep. Donald H. Clausen (Crescent City) yesterday depicted as a threat to the future growth of all Northern California a plan by Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall to send 1.2 million acre-feet of Northern California water to Southern California.

Clausen told a luncheon meeting of the Redwood Empire Assn. that he had urged Gov. Edmund G. Brown to oppose the Udall plan. Clausen also outlined a three-point approach to the future economic development of the Redwood Empire.

Clausen told the association that Udall had followed up the U.S. Supreme Court's decision on disputed Colorado River water by proposing that 1.2 million acre-feet of Northern California water be transported south. Southern California lost 1.1 million acre-feet of water to Arizona as a result of the decision.

Clausen said Northern California was also losing an additional 1.2 million acre-feet of water under the governor's state water plan.

"The secretary of interior has given California 90 days to register comment on his Pacific southwest water plan," Clausen said, "and today I wrote Governor Brown urging he submit an adverse recommendation on the Pacific water plan in its present form . . . because it is highly hazardous to county-of-origin water rights."

Clausen suggesting this three-point program for preserving the Redwood Empire:

1. "Operation Bootstrap" in which local commercial development corporations would be encouraged.

2. A balanced economy in which lumbering, recreation and conservation would have equal shares.

3. Water development.

Waitress Finds Too Many Cows On Road—Pow!

There were too many cows on Highway 101 for Mrs. Florence Giamona, 31, of 562 Thyme Place, Terra Linda, shortly before 3 a.m. Wednesday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

As Mrs. Giamona, waitress at Nave Lanes, was driving south 300 yards south of Lucas Valley Road she saw two cows standing in the road. Swerving her car to miss one, she hit the second, a Holstein that Highway Patrol Officers Gerald Walkup and Charles Heart found lying on the road.

The cows were from the nearby J. A. Fagundes Ranch in Lucas Valley. Fagundes said the injured cow was up and around and in good shape today.

Judge Butler Estate Worth $690,394

The late Judge Edward I. Butler of San Rafael, who died in 1961, left an estate worth $690,394, almost all in stocks.

This was disclosed yesterday in an inheritance tax appraiser's report filed by Lee V. Holman in Marin Superior Court. The inheritance tax alone comes to $87,022.

The judge's nephew, Harold E. Geary of 42 Treehaven Drive, San Rafael, has filed a petition for distribution of the estate to him as sole distributee. A hearing on that petition is set for Oct. 7 before Judge Thomas F. Keating.

Judge Butler was retired from the Marin Superior Court bench when he died Nov. 27, 1961.

Among stocks left by the judge were 4,097 shares of Bank of America common stock worth $271,426; 6,180 shares of Caterpillar Tractor Co. common stock valued at $237,157; $44,149 worth of shares in Central Illinois Electric and Gas Co.; and $15,373 worth of shares in Union Oil Co. of California. He also had smaller share holdings in several other companies.

Pianist Is Wanted For Throwing Drink At Woman

A warrant of arrest was issued yesterday for Bay Area pianist Vince Guaraldi, accused of cursing and tossing a drink in a woman's face at a Sausalito bar last Aug. 30.

Guaraldi was scheduled to appear before Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court yesterday on charges of battery and disturbing the peace. When he failed to show up, Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas T. Storer asked for and got a warrant of arrest issued by Judge Wilson.

Dee Taylor of 360 Ebbtide Avenue, Sausalito, told the district attorney that she was drinking with two girl friends at the Trident bar. She said Guaraldi, who was performing there that night, told the girls over the microphone to quiet down. Miss Taylor said she and her friends did quiet down.

Later, however, Guaraldi appeared at the bar, cursed the girls and tossed a drink in her face, Miss Taylor complained. She said the pianist also tossed a carte blanche machine at one of her friends.

Luxury Apartments Will Open To Public

Sausalito's luxury waterfront Cote d'Azur apartments, on which construction was started last year, will be open for public viewing tomorrow.

The 60-unit development at 100 South Street was begun as a community apartment project by Albert-Lovett Corp. of San Leandro. Early this year it was purchased by Markham Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of T. J. Bettes of California headquartered in San Francisco.

The new owners have converted the apartments from community to unfurnished lease units.

Cote d'Azur consists of four cliffside buildings overlooking the Sausalito Harbor and San Francisco Bay and surrounded by four acres of landscaped gardens. Units vary in size from studio to four-bedroom apartments, each with its own sundeck. All are fully carpeted and draped.

Other facilities include elevators in the buildings and parking for 70 cars.

Three model apartments have been decorated and furnished by C. Tony Pereira of Hollywood. Hours for viewing the models and other units will be from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week.

Stanford Properties Co. of San Francisco has been appointed exclusive lease agent.

Phone Booth Spirited Spot

A telephone booth pickup of beer and liquor resulted in the arrest of an Ingleside man on charges of purchasing liquor for minors last night.

Martin Skelson, 49, of 806 East 62nd Street, was arrested by sheriff's deputies after two Alcoholic Beverage Control investigators watched Skelson.

The investigators said Skelson came out of Dan's Market, Dolan's Corner, Mill Valley with two bags and placed one, containing beer and liquor in a telephone booth at the southwest corner of the store building.

Then, two minors went to the booth and picked up the bag. The arrest followed.

Skelson was released on $276 bail and scheduled to appear in Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Store Clerk Admits Pocketing Money

A woman store clerk at Brice Brothers Market in Bel Aire Shopping Center admitted yesterday she took money from the till and pocketed it for her own use.

Mrs. Rosemary Marie Holt, 35, of Sonoma, pleaded guilty to petty theft in Marin Municipal Court. Judge Joseph G. Wilson suspended a 30-day jail sentence and put her on probation for one year. She was caught pocketing a $5 bill last Wednesday. Sheriff's deputies said she admitted taking about $30 during the past two weeks.

Boy Hurt, Taxi Driver Cited

David Frederick Walraven, 12, of 316 G Street, was treated for cuts, bruises and scrapes yesterday by a private doctor after his bicycle collided head-on with a taxi cab in front of 18 Bryn Mawr Drive, San Rafael, at 4:40 p.m.

The Yellow Cab Co. driver, Willie Eugene Daughty of 810 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, was cited by police for driving on the wrong side of the street.

The youth was thrown over the hood of the car and his head broke the windshield, according to police. Daughty said he swerved to avoid the youth.

$500 In Tools Taken

Theft of carpenter's tools, valued at $500, from a construction site at 9 Diane Court, San Rafael, was reported to police yesterday by Laurel Alan Forward of Petaluma. Forward said the tools were taken from the trunk of a car between noon and 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

Luck Runs Out For 3 Boys In Car

Three Marin City boys thought they were in luck last night when they discovered an unlocked 1952 Chevy owned by Andrew Striplin, C36, apartment 285, parked near his home with the keys in it.

The boys, two 15-year-olds and one 16, took the car, drove it to San Francisco where their luck ran out at the Presidio of San Francisco. They were stopped by a military policeman there, charged with operating a vehicle on the wrong side of the road — they were pushing the car on the wrong side after it had run out of gas.

Two youths were captured there, the third ran and returned to his home in Marin City where he was apprehended later by Marin sheriff's deputies.

All three were charged with grand theft of the car by Marin authorities.

Sausalito Boys Nabbed For Theft Of Liquor

Three Sausalito youths were apprehended yesterday by police after they used a key hidden under a doormat to open and burglarize a Sausalito duplex of four bottles of liquor.

The boys, two age 16 and one 13, checked various doormats and houses before finding a key under one occupied by Barbara Burt, 127 Edwards Avenue, Sausalito. Scotch, vodka and gin were taken from the house on two occasions, June 20 and 27, police reported. The boys hid the liquor along one of the city's streets and returned at intervals to drink it, police said.

Police declined to say how the boys finally were found out. One of them also was apprehended last week on charges of stealing liquor from another home.

SEW SIMPLE

Average Figure Size Should Make Waist-Hip Allowances

By EUNICE FARMER

Many thanks to the hundreds of readers who took the time to write me regarding the so-called "average figure size" used in sizing patterns. The results so far show 97 per cent in favor of making waist and hip allowances. Could it be that those of you who are satisfied, haven't taken the time to write me? I'll admit, this project sure stirred up a lot of dust, but since we got started, let's finish the job.

We need a much larger representation of home seamstresses' voices in this before any pattern companies will be impressed enough to consider any changes. Remember, your problems are my problems, so please write a card or letter to Sew Simple, expressing your honest, personal views. Each and every answer is important! Isn't it fun to be able to speak your piece?

"Although I work where we manufacture men's suits, I still don't know what causes the sleeve to 'break' after it is set in." Mrs. S. S.

Dear Mrs. S. S.:

The "break" you refer to is evident in women's clothes as well as men's, and means that you have an ugly diagonal wrinkle in the upper sleeve. This is usually an individual fitting problem and determined by the way your arm hangs, either curved forward or toward the back. This break can usually be corrected by bringing the ease in the sleeve up towards the shoulder a little further, in other words, shifting the sleeve up slightly. According to professional tailors, the sleeves need more know-how than any part of the garment, and it is often necessary to spend hours getting the sleeve to hang just right. It is worth the effort when you achieve perfect results, so be sure to check the sleeves before permanent stitching.

Mrs. C. Dean Hawley, Tulsa, Okla., is this week's winner of a tailor trix pressing board.

To keep pleats in the back of your skirt from ripping out at the end of the stitching, angle your stitching from the end of the pleat to the inside edge of the pleat. This keeps the strain from the exact point of the pleat and should keep it from ripping.

"Last winter I made a satin brocade sheath dress and jacket. I underlined the jacket with silk but not the dress. Now I notice that the darts and seams at the waistline of my dress are all pulled, leaving it an awful sight. I would like to make another brocade and need your help first." Mrs. C.W.R.

Dear Mrs. C.W.R.:

Brocades, taffetas, satins and some silk shantungs have a tendency to pull apart at the seams wherever there is the slightest strain. You can avoid a great deal of this by underlining your garment made out of these fabrics. Use a light weight, but firm fabric, baste it to your garment fabric and then treat as one piece.

It is also a good idea to insert a piece of grosgrain ribbon at the waistline of tightly fitted dresses. Catch it to all seams and darts and make it just a little tighter than the dress. You should place a hook and eye on each end of the grosgrain; fasten before closing the zipper. It will relieve much of the strain.

Mrs. H. says: "When putting in slide fasteners by hand on sheer fabrics, I find the new nylon colorless thread excellent. The closing is almost invisible."

Your sewing glossary: Double welted seams: A welt seam that is stitched on both sides of the seam. (Very new this year and shown on many coats and suits.)

If you are one of the many who cannot set in sleeves without gathers and puckers, you will find my leaflet "All About Sleeves" invaluable. To obtain this leaflet, send a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to Sew Simple in care of the Independent-Journal.

Oko Of West Marin Fought For All He Deemed Right

Like many another brash young lad before him through all human history, the late Adolph Sigmund Oko nearly broke his father's heart. And again following a frequent and familiar pattern, the son lived to achieve deeds which would have deeply comforted the spirit of the dreamy, romantic Jewish scholar.

There was good reason to think that the younger Oko might have achieved greatly in the arts and sciences. This was the aim of the father. For Dr. Oko was a student and interpreter of Spinoza's pantheism, a magazine editor, finally director of the Cincinnati Hebrew Union College Library and Museum. That his son should spurn clear gifts as an artist and in kindred fields to go to sea was a bitter blow.

But is was because of this training at sea, which led to a skipper's ticket, that Captain Oko was finally able with his devoted wife Gladys to save 7,737 Jews from misery in Europe and to deliver them to their ancient homeland, Israel, now a new nation. The Okos and what he affectionately called his rusty teakettle the Kefalos were able to put teeth into the struggle of that new nation by delivering the country's biggest arms shipment. That was all in 1948; Dr. Oko died in 1941, lamentably, for surely his spirit would have gloried in such service by his son.

Not merely throughout Marin County but all over the world Captain and Mrs. Oko have friends. It was fitting that despite recent ill health, the captain's sudden death in San Rafael last Wednesday night came in the midst of dynamic activity. However bizarre, it was likewise fitting that he was elected vice president of the Marin County Historical Society a matter of moments after a death not known to the meeting he was to have attended.

Oko's picturesque vocabulary and his love for things extraordinary would have made him a vivid character anywhere. But Marin County seemed peculiarly his natural habitat. During recent years he was a real estate broker. This he regarded as a true and exacting profession, exercised with careful attention to every point ethical, aesthetic, in some aspects warmly humantarian.

His love for the land encompassed as a major consuming interest the work of the Drake Navigators Guild in historic research. This required for detective-story analysis of the facts of Sir Francis Drake's long-ago Marin landing the fullest scientific efforts including knowledge of archeology, chemistry, climate and all known facts of the sea.

Oko was a turbulent soul, a crusader, adventurer, rebel against the machine in its shoddy aspects, idealistic believer in man's need and ability to improve his own destiny. Life he termed "a worthy effort." In this attitude he lived vigorously until his death, instant as he would have wished.

PLENTY OF FOOD IN SEA

There's enough food in the sea to relieve the serious shortage of protein that plagues two-thirds of mankind.

While 34 million tons of fish are now harvested each year, experts say that this total could be increased ten-fold.

In his book, "Assault on the Unknown," Walter Sullivan said: "If we can but learn to farm and harvest the seas, we need not fear starvation, even though the world's population should increase seven-fold."

Try to keep informed about anything that will help the hungry or undernourished people of the earth to have at least the minimum amount of sustenance that is essential.

This should be a particular challenge to those blessed by abundance and motivated by a love of others.

"I was hungry and you gave Me to eat." (Matthew 25:35)

Let me show my gratitude for the blessing of food, O Lord, by doing my bit to provide for the hungry.

Hold Back, Don't Reset Clock— You've Got A Month To Wait

WE THOUGHT we had trapped a couple of courthouse burglars crawling in furtively through one of the first floor windows last Saturday.

But they weren't burglars at all—just two prominent members of the district attorney's office. They weren't crawling in; they were crawling out.

Seems they came in to work on Saturday, through the sheriff's office in the basement, up the elevator, into the locked building. But came time to go home, and the elevator was stuck. No way out, so they shimmied out the window, glancing both ways and congratulating themselves that no one had seen them—they thought.

A COUPLE of promoters from Santa Ana way are reportedly interested in opening up the old Juanita's Galley again—under a new name of course.

Rumors are that they hope to make it a jumpin' joint, with beer, wine and everything. This is just a plan. How far they'll get remains to be seen.

Officer Jim Carleton of San Rafael is back from Mazatland where he caught a nine-foot, 150-pound sailfish.

UNDER THE new laws, a previous drunk driving offense is not used against you if it's more than seven years old. In other words, if seven years elapse and you get caught the second time, it is considered your "first offense."

The way we figure it, that allows you quite a few drunk driving convictions in a lifetime.

If you get caught the first time at 16, and space out the arrests just right, you can have your ninth drunken driving arrest at age 72, and it would still be your "first offense."

A SAN RAFAEL lawyer, defending a tough San Quentin convict, was chatting with his client during court recess.

"Can I get you something?" the lawyer asked the convict, adding in jest: "Sorry can't get you beer."

"Gee, I'd love some chocolate malted milk," the con enthused. "Booze we can make there, but malted milk we just can't get."

Malted milk he got.

TOOK A COUPLE of officers to break up an early morning fray down Corte Madera way the other day. One man was trying to punch another.

One of the combatants, they tell me, is a lawyer who carries considerable weight around town.

Just think.

Fire Drills Are Important

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As residents within the Tamalpais Fire Protection District we have also been concerned with the lack of volunteer participation in the fire drills.

These drills, offered every Wednesday night at 7:30 sharp, are to acquaint the volunteers with the proper use of equipment—including the resuscitator, the proper procedure for fire fighting, and are of intent to stress the safety of the volunteer as well as that of any possible fire victim.

The interested volunteers are now enrolled in a Fire Science class at College of Marin. This class currently takes the place of the evening drills—but in the words of Chief Owen, "Any volunteer may come down to either of the stations at any time during the daylight or evening hours and learn the use of equipment."

In fact, the department is actively offering every possible learning opportunity to the volunteer. And it remains for the interested and concerned volunteer to avail himself of these opportunities.

We realize there is human error in this lack of drill participaion. "I'm tired. I'll go next Wednesday. I can miss drill this once."

But we also realize that these volunteers are a special breed of men who will leave personal comforts and pleasure at the first sound of the fire horn. And in the words of Chief Owen who is always concerned for the safety of his men and his volunteers, "These volunteers are so much more valuable if they have availed themselves of the drill opportunities."

My wife and I were very happy to see the concern exhibited by the conscientious and responsible members of the "concern" committee who vowed at the September 19 Tamalpais Fire Protection District meeting that, "We stand ready and willing to offer whatever assistance we can provide," and who accepted the assignment of working in committee to "assist in the reincarnation of the esprit de corps." Our hats are off to you "concern" committee members: Jim Bass, Bob Glessner, Herman Koolhoven, Allen McClure and Karl Zipf.

As residents and taxpayers, we also want to publicly commend the Tamalpais Fire Protection District Board for their unanimous action in defending the right of their administrative officer, Chief Owen, to carry out his administrative duties, such as the hiring and firing of any personnel, unhampered. Our gratitude to your Fire Commissioners: Don Taylor, Ray Massagli, John Donhoff, Morris Batz and Carl Modell.

My wife and I have already sent a letter to the Tamalpais Fire Protection District Board expressing our opinion of the good sense and solid judgement displayed by this board, and of our faith in the ability of Chief Owen. And we want to go on public record in stating that we indeed feel fortunate to live within the Tamalpais Fire Protection District.

Wachsman's Scalp Is Demanded

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Regarding Edward Wachsman, of the county planning staff, and his "innocent" violation of San Rafael regulations of the very type he is paid to enforce: If the Marin County supervisors don't see he is fired, then we ought to see that they are.

The reasons are so obvious—in respect to a whole spectrum of factors, from democratic law enforcement to the integrity of the construction industry itself—that I am sure that even Commissioner Charles Hendrickson, my friend and fellow contractor, who "went easy" on this double-faced bureaucrat, will on reflection join with the entire building industry of Marin County in burning out this spot with a hot iron.

Likewise, any planning official who would defend such a person is himself suspect. The laws and regulations of planning are far from perfect—and I have argued about them in detailed situations as often as anyone in the business; but their purpose is for the good of all of us. And he who flouts them not only shows his contempt for all of us but, beyond that, his sheer incapacity to serve the public trust. The conduct of this young man seems to me to amount to intolerable cynicism toward his fellowmen.

RUSSIA BUYS WHEAT

Crop Failures Are Reported In Soviet Grain Areas

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI)—Crop failure in vital Soviet grain growing areas this year compelled record breaking purchases of wheat in Canada and Australia to insure adequate domestic supply of bread and comply with Soviet export commitments, according to Western agricultural experts.

Official reports from abroad which have not been published here so far said the Kremlin has contracted to buy $500 million worth of wheat from Canada plus another estimated $100 million worth from Australia—a total of approximately seven million metric tons.

The figures contrasted sharply with last year's almost negligible Soviet wheat imports of 45,000 tons.

HOWEVER, Western experts explained that the unprecedented purchase of foreign wheat by a traditionally exporting country does not mean either serious shortages of bread for the Soviet consumer nor a radical departure in Soviet trade policy.

The bulk of the imported wheat will be re-exported to Communist bloc countries, Cuba and western countries in accordance with prior Soviet commitments.

East European countries will get about 3.5 metric tons and roughly two million will go to Scandinavia and Cuba, leaving only between one and two million tons for the Soviet Union.

It was pointed out that since 1955 the Soviet Union has exported between two and four million tons of wheat per year.

FOR GEOGRAPHICAL reasons Soviet trading organizations have also found it more economical to import Canadian and Australian wheat for consumption in Siberia and export their own wheat from European Russia.

Figures for the current Soviet grain harvest have not yet been released but by all accounts it is expected to be much lower than last year's claimed crop of 147 million metric tons.

Virgin lands areas in Kazakhstan, which in past years supplied about 40 per cent of Soviet grain deliveries, were hard hit by drought last autumn followed by a severe long winter, sudden thaw and drought against this summer.

BUT THE north Caucasus, the Kuban and the lower Volga yielded good harvests which, combined with available reserves and imports, will provide an adequate supply of Russia's basic and most popular food—bread—in the opinion of economic experts.

However, Soviet authorities have shown considerable anxiety about the recurring practice of bread and grain squandering and their widespread use for cattle fodder and chicken feed.

Because of the fodder shortage, individual farm animal owners in drought-stricken areas have been tempted to hoard supplies for the winter in spite of severe penalties involved.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Viet Nam Reds Striking In New Graver Attack

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — There is solid proof that the North Vietnamese Communist attack on South Viet Nam has entered a new and much graver phase.

At least four regular regiments of the North Vietnamese army — including the 803d and 804th regiments of the 324th division—now are operating on South Viet Nam territory.

That's the dark heart of the foreboding report Gen. Paul D. Harkins, who is running the U. S. military show in Viet Nam, has given Defense Sec. Robert McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In addition, General Harkins warned that intelligence obtained from ground observers and air reconnaissance indicates the presence near Kontum, capital of South Viet Nam's most exposed border province, of two other bodies of Communist troops which are believed to be regiments of regulars.

THESE GROUPS, not precisely identifiable since no prisoners have been taken and no documents have been captured, are known to be using elephant and air transport, presumably for weapons heavier than the light guerrilla armament.

Air reconnaissance has confirmed a seventh Communist regiment's presence in the Laos border area, where it is clearly preparing to enter South Vietnamese territory, if it has not already done so.

General Harkins stressed that these ominous developments suggest that the Communists are preparing to launch "Phase Five," the final and decisive stage of their master plan to conquer South Viet Nam. Originally planned for last spring, the Red offensive was delayed because of supply difficulties.

OPPOSES AID CUTS — General Harkins pleaded that it is absolutely vital that the present level of military aid to the Diem government be continued so that the South Vietnamese military forces have all the supplies needed to counter this new Communist offensive.

He also strongly supported plans of Diem to have his special miiltary units take the initiative and to hit the enemy often and hard where he is most vulnerable — his supply lines.

This would be done mainly in triphammer raids against vital Communist supply lines in adjoining Laos and North Viet Nam. These slashing attacks, behind enemy lines, already have been launched on a very small scale by South Vietnamese rangers, but Diem's plan to enlarge this operation by using U. S. helicopters has been vetoed by President Kennedy.

THE VIETNAM MISSION —The McNamara-Taylor mission, now in South Viet Nam making an on-the-spot investigation, was commissioned by President Kennedy to find out whether his veto should be lifted or new and still tighter curbs placed on Diem and his plans to carry the war into the "privileged sanctuary" of the Viet Congs.

The U. S. crackdown on Diem is being pushed by a powerful group in the State Department headed by Dr. Walt Rostow, chairman of the State Department Planning Council, and Under Secretary of State Averell Harriman.

These officials take the position that these "across-the-border" raids should be stopped since they might "enlarge" the present conflict and involve the U. S. in a war with North Viet Nam and Communist China. They hold it is beyond the capacity of Diem's forces to cut the supply lines to the north.

Red Chinese accuse Russia of subversion in Ili district of uranium-rich Sinkiang

China Charges Russ Subversion

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The loudest voice of anti-imperialism is suddenly picking up some unpleasant echoes.

In its dispute with Communist China the Soviet Union has found itself rudely reminded of its colonialist past when, under the czars, it played the game of imperialism as avidly and successfully as any of the western powers for the land and wealth of an all but helpless China.

Peking last March declared it does not accept as binding the "unequal" treaties by which Russia and other colonial powers obtained Chinese land during the 19th and early 20th centuries.

Then, early this month, the Communist Chinese accused Russia of fomenting rebellion in the uranium-rich province of Sinkiang.

Sinkiang, an area of non-Chinese Moslems, has long been a target of Chinese and Russian rivalry.

The area includes much of Kazakhstan, Uzbekistan and Tadzhikistan along the borders of Afghanistan and Pakistan. The Russian took these over from small, independent potentates who had only the loosest connection to China, if any.

Yet in the angry split between Moscow and Peking, it appears the Chinese are building up a case to claim these territories.

The immediate focal point is the district of Ili (see map) in Sinkiang. The Chinese accuse the Russians of trying to subvert Chinese authority in Ili and of "coercing" thousands of Chinese to cross the border into the Soviet Union.

Peking called this "an astounding event, unheard of between socialist countries."

Russia won the right to mine uranium in Sinkiang in 1950. Eighty years before, Czarist troops had moved into Sinkiang, then moved out 10 years later in favor of the Chinese. But by World War I Russians were virtually in charge again.

As late as 1949, when the Communists were about to oust Chiang Kai-Shek from the mainland, Russia was still negotiating with the Nationalist Chinese leader to recognize Soviet "special interest" in the area.

Oddly enough Russia was the first European nation China signed a treaty with. In treaties of 1689 and 1727 the two nations established diplomatic relations, provided for trade and extradition of criminals. But when the West began playing a stronger hand in China during the opium wars Russia's interest became more crass.

By the Treaty of Tientsin in 1857, following fighting between Britain, France and China, Russia was awarded all Chinese territory north of the Amur River. When the Chinese balked at the treaty, France and Britain imposed harsher terms which included ceding to Russia all land east of the Ussuri River.

After China and Japan fought over Korea in 1894, the Russians joined in the competition to carve up China and won the right to build a railroad across Manchuria. After the Germans seized Tsingtao in 1897 on the pretext of the murder of some German missionaries, the Russians occupied Port Arthur and Dairen.

Russia then joined with other western colonial powers in dividing China into "spheres of influence," claiming for herself all of China north of the Great Wall.

Russia moved troops into Manchuria after the Boxer Rebellion in 1900 but gradually withdrew because of pressure from Japan and Britain. Japanese hostility to Russia's ambitions finally broke out into war in 1905.

Russia suffered a disastrous defeat after which she ceded to Japan the southern half of Sakhalin Island, first occupied by Czarist forces in 1806, and agreed to let China develop Manchuria without obstruction.

Their respective revolutions —China's in 1911 and Russia's in 1917—brought the two nations more closely together. The new Communist regime in Moscow abetted the Sun Yat-Sen.

Thus all along their common border are potential friction points between the two major communist powers. As noted, Peking has already said it does not recognize as binding key treaties by which Russia took much of this land. The treaties will come up for reappraisal, Red China said, "when conditions are ripe."

This is a veiled threat, which, should relations between the two countries continue to worsen, could bring back Russia's imperialist past to haunt her anew.

KENNEDY PAST DEADLINE

Unemployment Continues To Be Dilemma For Nation

By WILLIAM J. EATON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy took office in January, 1961, with high hopes of slashing the nation's jobless rolls to 4 per cent of the work force by mid-1963.

Now that his self-imposed deadline is past, Kennedy is a much more cautious prophet. He foresees a reduction in the present 5.5 per cent jobless rate to 5 per cent by early 1966 IF Congress approves his economy-stimulating tax cut.

The most recent job figures, for August, indicate that unemployment fell below four million for the first time in eight months. But the seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment, the key indicator, was virtually unchanged at 5.5 per cent of the labor force.

How could the president, aided by an array of top economists and the government's vast data-collecting machinery, have been so far off in his earlier estimate?

The answer is not simple. But a fast-changing technology, a flood of teen-age job seekers and the lack of spectacular economic growth have been major factors.

Most economists involved believe the administration has taken all the steps advisable to hold down the unemployment rate despite the inability the roll it back to the pre-recession level of 1959.

Kennedy is reluctant to use certain stimulants — such as a general lowering of interest rates—for fear it might weaken the U. S. balance of payments position or lead to further losses of gold.

There is no unanimity on the long-range answer to the problem.

Chairman Walter Heller of the president's council of economic advisers has argued that stepped-up demand is the basic answer. They would spur consumer buying power by encouraging business investment and public spending.

Others — primarily federal reserve board chairman William McC. Martin—believe that so-called "structural unemployment" is the major cause of nagging joblessness.

In their view, the major problem stems from changes in technology or market forces that leave workers stranded in an obsolete industry or out of work because machines have replaced them.

Coal mining, with its pockets of long-term jobless in Kentucky, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, is frequently cited as a prime example of the Martin theory.

The solution, if you accept this view, is better education, retraining and improved labor markets so job openings can be matched up sooner with the right worker.

Kennedy's program has proceeded along both lines of attack on the theory that both faster economic growth and better job preparation are needed to get an edge in the battle.

But here are some of the problems Kennedy has encountered along the way:

1. Swiftly Changing Technology. The Labor Department has reported that productivity is increasing at a more rapid rate than in the late 1950s. Output per man-hour is rising at the rate of 4.5 per cent a year. This indicates that business investment in machines, and resulting manpower economies, are adding to the jobless problem. The Labor Department estimates that 1.2 million jobs are lost each year because of new machines or more efficient methods.

2. Teen-Agers. The surge of youngsters into the labor force in recent years, coupled with a growing scarcity of unskilled jobs, has led to skyrocketing teen-age unemployment. It was as high as 18 per cent this spring and now hovers around the 15 per cent level—three times the national rate for all age groups.

The bumper baby crop which immediately followed World War II now is coming into the labor force with millions more expected to be knocking at employers' doors in the next few years.

A recent Labor Department study said the high postwar birth rates will increase the number of job-seekers in the 14-24 age group by about 3.3 million between now and 1967.

Since jobless rates increase as education declines, Kennedy and members of his cabinet have been urging youngsters to finish high school before entering the job market. Unemployment rates for high school drop-outs are double those of youngsters who get a diploma.

3. Growth and Jobs. An AFL-CIO economist has worked out a chart indicating that it now takes three times as much economic growth than it did a decade ago to create jobs, figures compiled by Nathaniel Goldfinger show that one job was created for every $10,326 increase in the gross national product after the '53-'54 recession. The comparable figure was $31,728 following the '60-'61 business slump. He believes this indicates that more money is being invested in machines but fewer men are being used to increase the GNP.

Some economists contend the change reflects a greater proportion of spending in industries which use less manpower in their production processes. For example, big construction projects use about 20 per cent more workers per dollar of outlay than missile manufacturers. A greater percentage of the missile funds goes for more expensive materials, design and engineering work rather than production line hands.

What's the answer?

The president believes his 11-billion-dollar tax cut and other economic legislation will start to solve the unemployment dilemma. His critics contend that an entire package of legislation, plus a 35-hour week, are required.

Gangster Turncoat Is Star Witness

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

A man with a raspy voice talked and a nation listened.

He was on television but only his hands showed on the screen. He was the star witness at a Senate crime hearing but he didn't want his face exposed.

His name was Frank Costello and he sat before a keen group of inquisitors which included Sen. Estes Kefauver, Sen. Charles Tobey and special counsel Rudolph Halley, all of whom are now dead.

Despite the brilliance of the men before him, Costello was tight lipped and not much information was obtained other than he owned parts of companies that made "the best broiler on the market" and something resembling kewpie dolls.

At the time, Costello was said to be the head of a nationwide crime syndicate. This was more than 10 years ago, and Costello has been in and out of prison and now faces possible deportation.

Costello's appearance before the Kefauver committee and his reluctance to talk was in sharp contrast to the star role played this week by Joseph Valachi, a self-admitted murderer turned informer to save his own skin.

Valachi, who also has a raspy voice, was willing to talk at length and he did and he did not object to his face appearing on television.

He unraveled a story about an organization which he calls "Cosa Nostra" and says consists of a crime network in major cities. He put the finger on Vito Genovese, now in Leavenworth as the boss and blamed him for at least one unsolved murder.

Valachi began talking about a year ago in secret sessions with the Justice Department after he feared he was marked for execution by members of his "Cosa Nostra" family. But he did not talk publicly until yesterday.

Whether the testimony given by only one man, an individual with a long police record that includes murder, war profiteering and narcotics peddling, can help break the crime syndicates remains to be seen.

For instance, Valachi said Genovese, while in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, ordered the execution of mobster Anthony (Tony Bender) Strollo, who has not been seen since his disappearance from Fort Lee, N.J., 17 months ago.

Earlier, authorities in New York had said Valachi's published statements did not add to what they already knew about criminal operations in the city.

SACRAMENTO — Californians will have a chance to see one of their brand new election laws tried out in November.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown has called a special election in the Seventh Senate District, comprised of Placer, Nevada and Sierra counties. The vacancy was created by the resignation of Sen. Ronald G. Cameron (D-Auburn) to accept appointment as a superior judge.

Up until now, special elections have been sudden-death affairs. Sometimes there have been six or eight candidates, but the one who received the most votes was the winner. This has resulted in persons being elected with only a small percentage of the vote.

That type of election also has resulted in "dummy" candidates being put up by the opposite party to attempt to split the vote. It even has resulted in running candidates with the same last name as the strongest contender, in an attempt to confuse the voter.

Under the new law, however, there will be two special elections, if necessary. The first, in effect, will be a primary election among all comers. But, if the candidate with the most votes does not have a majority of the votes cast, there must be a runoff between the two top vote-getters.

It will be a primary election in the old, cross-filing fashion, with voters having the chance to vote for candidates from either party.

The bill setting up the new special election procedure was approved by the 1963 legislature, although it had started out its legislative course in considerably different form. Originally, the bill would have limited candidates in any special election to two, one from each party. They would have been selected by the local central committees.

That feature of the bill was dropped because of strong opposition to lodging that much authority in a central committee.

So, in the upcoming Seventh District election, the first will be held Nov. 5. If no candidate gets a majority, the run-off election will be held Dec. 3.

Special elections are more important to the legislature than one might think. A quick glance at the present membership shows that at least 19 members first were elected at special elections.

Vacancies are created during the interim between most elections, due to resignations to accept appointment or due to deaths.

Naturally both parties are interested in tailoring the special election laws to their own advantage. With the Democrats in control of the legislature, it's assumed that the new special election law will favor that party.

This should come about through the simple fact that Democrats have the edge on registration in most assembly and senate districts in the state. Thus, if the voters were voting for only two candidates, the Democrat would stand the better chance of winning, merely because of his party affiliation. The new law would not stop the opposition party from loading up the ballot but would require a final run-off election.

It's no absolute guarantee of electing all Democrats in special elections, however, as Californians have the habit of voting for the man.

Special elections always are watched closely by politicians as being important indications of voter trends. While this has provided lots of interesting conversation and speculation in the past, it has not always been too accurate.

Over-optimistic Republicans saw the election of two Republicans in special elections in 1961 and early 1962 as indications of a rejection of Gov. Edmund G. Brown and his administration. However, Brown's subsequent victory at the polls in November, 1962, discounted that conclusion.

SOME SAMPLES OF HOW TAX CUT WOULD WORK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 50 tables, prepared by the U.S. Treasury, show how federal income taxes would be reduced in two stages in 1964 and 1965 the tax-cutting bill passed by the House this week.

Bear in mind that the bill would not reduce final tax payments due April 15, 1964, on 1963 income. The reductions would start with income earned in 1964.

All sample figures assume that all income is from wages and salaries. Income from capital gains and dividends is taxed at lower rates. (The Senate still must act on the measure.)

National Champion Teaches Players About Art Of Finesse

"Good players look for a way to avoid a finesse," Doug Drury was saying to his class in San Francisco the other day, as I shamelessly eavesdropped from another room.

Drury should know what good players do since he has won oodles of national and regional championships.

Drury illustrated his point with a hand that I filched from him later.

AVERAGE PLAYER

The average player would go down on this hand; Drury's pupils would make it. And so would readers of this column.

South refuses the first two spade tricks but wins the third. Now he needs two diamond tricks to make the contract.

The average player would go over to dummy with a club to take a diamond finesse.

WEST WINS

Curtains! West wins with the king of diamonds and defeats the contract with the rest of the spades.

The expert takes no finesse. After winning the third spade, the expert leads out the ace of diamonds.

The fall of the king of diamonds is just gravy. South would make the contract even if East had both the king and queen of diamonds.

HEART RETURN

South would give up a diamond, win the heart return and give up another diamond. Then he would take the rest with high cards.

The play of the ace of diamonds guarantees the contract when West has the singleton king or queen of diamonds as well as when East has both the king and queen.

If West has the guarded king or queen of diamonds, the contract is doomed.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Where but in print can you get so close to the advertising messages that interest you? Where else can a woman clip the coupons and recipes that intrigue her? Or tear out tips to try on leftovers? Or mark, for future marketing, any of the colorful food ideas which strike her fancy?

And where else can she circle and compare the colors and styles of clothing and furnishings that appeal to her?

Where else, in fact, can any message be re-run at will by an interested audience?

So make sure a good part of your advertising message gets into print. Let somebody's eyes linger over it as long as they like. Let somebody's scissors clip it free of competition. And then watch someone's pocket or purse carry it to the place of purchase. Print makes sense because print makes sales.

Drake Crushes Analy; Redwood Rallies To 14-6 Win

Undefeated Bucs Romp, 39-14; Giant Comeback Whips Ukiah

Drake Rolls Up Early Lead For Third Straight

The rampaging Drake High School Pirates, running and passing to perfection, swamped the gridders from Analy High School 39-14 last night in Sebastopol.

By halftime the Pirates were resting with a 33-7 lead.

Drake's sophomore sensation, halfback Dean Lazzarini, picked up 139 yards on the ground and flankerback Mike Crabtree gained 177 yards on pass receptions as the Pirates won their third straight practice game of the season.

Drake scored three times in the opening quarter, the first on a 45-yard scamper by Lazzarini through tackle on the second play from scrimmage by Drake.

Next time Drake got its hands on the ball, quarterback Mike Kemp threw a pass to Crabtree which netted 72 yards and a touchdown. The pass carried for 35 yards and Crabtree ran the other 37, proving he's the kind of receiver who can do more than just catch the ball.

Fullback Joe DeMasi picked up the third Drake TD of the quarter on a two-yard plunge.

'LAZZ' ROMPS

In the second quarter, Lazzarini added another touchdown on a 26 - yard romp around left end, and a nine-yard pass from Kemp to Crabtree was good for another six-pointer in that period.

Demasi scored the final Pirate touchdown in the third stanza on a one - yard burst through the middle. Analy scored a touchdown on a 60-yard pass play in the first quarter and added its second TD on a 45-yard aerial in the third quarter.

Drake's Terry Tadlock scored all three of the Drake extra points on kicks, three out of three attempts. He tried to throw passes for the other three, but all were incomplete.

By halftime, Drake's powerful offense had picked up a total of 350 yards. Drake head coach Bob Franceschini and assistant Red Brown installed the reserves in the second half.

MIXED ATTACK

Drake picked up 264 yards rushing and 202 yards passing for a total of 466 yards to Analy's 211 total yards. Drake picked up 18 first downs to five for Analy. Mixing up its attack, Drake used 37 running plays and 29 passes.

Lazzarini carried 12 times for his 139 yards, good for a 11.6 average per carry. DeMasi gained 57 yards in 10 carries, 5.7 average. Kemp completed six out of 18 passes, mostly bombs, and reserve quarterback Al Simontacchi completed five out of 11. Crabtree used only eight receptions to gain his 177 yards.

Franceschini praised the line play of his team, especially on downfield blocks. Singled out for outstanding jobs were tackle Lee Jamison and guards Richard Street and Jim Walsh.

WARNER GRID STARTS AT S.R. TONIGHT

Marin County Pop Warner Football Conference opens its 1963 league schedule this weekend with a doubleheader at San Rafael High School field tonight and a single game tomorrow at Novato High field.

Tonight at 6 o'clock the San Rafael Junior Bulldogs tackle the Mill Valley Indians and at 8 o'clock it will be Terra Linda vs. San Anselmo.

Tomorrow at Novato the Novato Junior Hornets will battle the Redwood Junior Giants starting at 2 p.m. The latter game will be broadcast by Radio KTIM.

Wildcats Edged By Albany '11'

"Just one lapse by our defense cost us the game," explained Marin Catholic Coach Doug Damaschino yesterday after his Wildcats suffered a 12-7 practice football loss to Albany High in Albany.

The lapse came in the third period on what should have been a 10-yard loss for Albany. The ball - toter fumbled, but teamate Scott Forrest scooped up the ball and raced 63 - yards for a touchdown through the startled Wildcat defense.

That gave the hosts a 12-0 lead, beyond reach of Marin's fourth quarter comeback for seven points.

"We should have won it 7-6," said Damaschino. "Except for that one lapse, our defense was outstanding. I think we held them to only two first downs in the entire second half."

Albany drew first blood in the second period when Phil Ponchone scooted 13-yards for a 6-0 lead.

Just before the half ended Marin threatened by driving to the Albany six only to fall short of paydirt. Twice earlier in the half the Wildcats were within the Albany 15 in abortive scoring threats.

MARIN SCORES

After Albany made it 12-0 in the third period, Marin finally got on the scoreboard in the fourth stanza when Lu Ercolini, finding a hole over right tackle opened by John LaBoyteaux and Pete Donaldson, raced 20 yards to a TD, his fourth of the season. Tom Bird kicked the seventh point but it was too little, too late for Marin. The Wildcats now have a 1-1 record after last week's 24-0 romp over Healdsburg.

In defeat the Wildcats showed a balanced offense, featuring the running of Rick Bacich and Ercolini and a sharp short-passing game by quarterback Bob Carney. He completed 10 of 15 aerials for 66 yards with John Klapperich, Gary Wallaert, Bacich and Ercolini on the receiving end.

Damaschino said his defense "as a whole" was outstanding, but refused to single out any player in particular.

Marin draws a bye next week in the Marin Athletic League schedule before tackling Novato on Oct. 4.

Auerbach Scores 13 Points In Fourth Quarter

By PHIL de FREMERY

Redwood High's determined Giants, led by mercurial halfback Dave Auerbach and the powerful Paul Ackerman, upset Ukiah 14-6 last night at Kentfield in their final practice game preceding the Marin Athletic League opener next Friday against Tamalpais.

The Giants, praised by Coach Bob Troppmann as "strong and getting stronger" in all departments, came roaring from behind with a 14-point burst in the fourth quarter to overcome a 6-0 lead Ukiah established in the second period.

As an estimated crowd of 2,000 looked on, the Giants, defending MAL champs, unleashed drives of 67 and 42 yards for their fourth quarter touchdowns.

The first drive started when Ackerman, a transfer student from Michigan, intercepted a pass on Redwood's 24, and returned it to the 33. In six plays, with Dave Cox, Auerbach and Ackerman doing the ball-carrying, the Giants hit paydirt. Auerbach scored on a six-yard end run to tie it up at 6-6. Auerbach scored the go-ahead extra point on a line smash for a 7-6 Redwood edge.

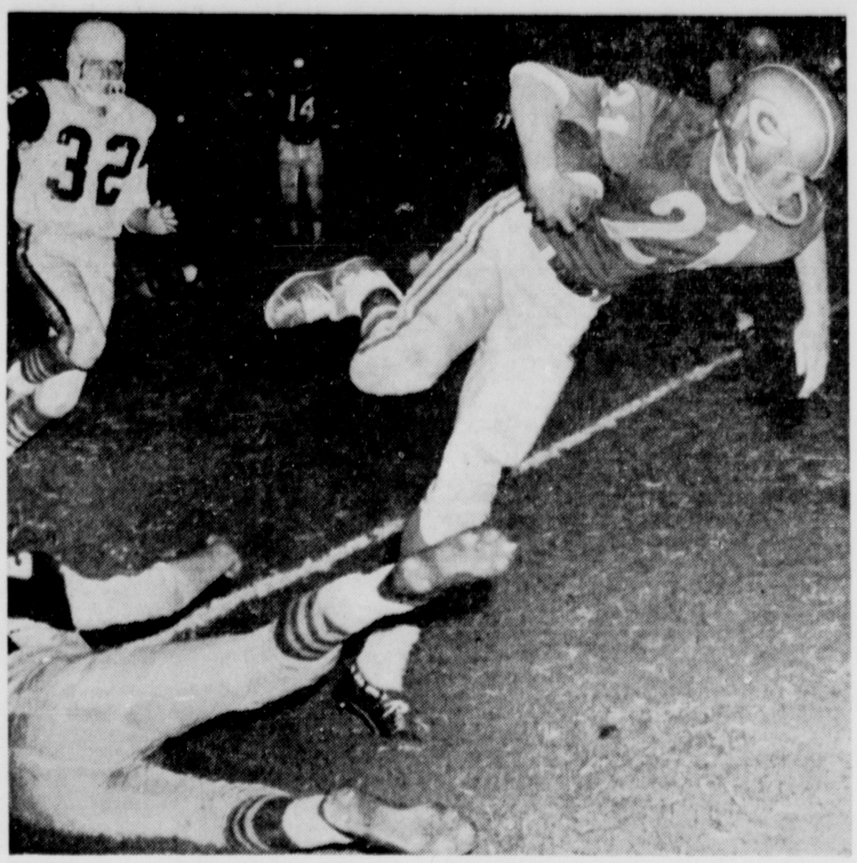
FINAL TALLY

The Giants added the icing later in the period after taking over on the Ukiah 42 and driving to the end zone in four plays. Auerbach dashed to the 22, Cox picked up six to the 16, the 190-pound Ackerman cracked up the middle to the 9 and then the flashy Auerbach raced around end, zigzagged through defenders, for a TD—his 13th point of the evening. Cox made the 14th point on an end sweep.

"Auerbach and Ackerman give us a fine one-two punch," beamed Troppmann. "In the past we've sputtered and scrambled, but this time there were no mistakes. I think we really came of age in that last quarter. The game was a splendid team effort and the final polishing step for our league schedule. We beat Ukiah, a hard team to take, because we had 100 per cent effort on the part of every man in there." Ukiah, by the way, blanked Novato 13-0 last week.

Troppmann also praised the rushing of tackle Jim Carroll and the linebacking of Steve Minutoli, Joel Wallace and Dennis Schunk. Ukiah's lone score was a 45-yard return of a recovered fumble by Mike Inong.

Redwood thus completed its pre-league schedule with a 2-1 record. After losing 39-6 to powerful Bellarmine in the opener, the Giants came back last week with a 27-6 win over Montgomery.



BUSY BOY—Redwood halfback Dave Auerbach (21) was a busy boy at Kentfield last night, especially in the fourth quarter when he scored 13 points to lead the Giants to a 14-6 victory over Ukiah. Here Auerbach hurdles over fallen Ukiah player en route to a sizable gain.

49ers Try Again Tomorrow

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers will present a slightly new look tomorrow against the Minnesota Vikings, but will stay in the same old underdog role.

The Vikings thumped the 49ers in the National Football League opener 24-20 in a game in which the Vikings looked much the better team despite the close score.

But quarterback John Brodie has flashed much better form since that lacklustre opener and the 49ers have shifted several other performers.

Veteran end Clyde Conner returned to the offense, freeing Jim Johnson to the defensive backfield. The Prospectors also reactivated old pro fullback Joe Perry and switched El Kimbrough and Kermit Alexander's places in the defensive backfield.

The Vikes also have a problem in that Tommy Mason, a do-everything halfback who had a good day against the Prospectors, is suffering from a sore leg and may have to give way to George Reed much of the time.

But the fact still remains that the 49ers have lost two regular games and five preseason battles without a victory this year.

The feeling around the 49er camp is that Minnesota can be taken, but the Vikes are still one-touchdown favorites.

A crowd of 30,000 is expected to sit in on the battle.

Giants Lose To Bucs; Will They Blow 3rd?

Even the consolation prize of third place is evading the grasp of the San Francisco Giants.

Last year's National League champions fell within one game of fourth-place Cincinnati and Philadelphia last night when they dropped an 8-3 decision to Pittsburgh at Candlestick Park.

The Giants need only one victory or one loss each by the Reds and Phils to cinch a tie for the show position—but the magic number is still two for outright possession of third.

Juan Marichal bid for his 25th victory of the season and the definite share of third when he went for the Giants today against Pittsburgh's Joe Gibbon.

Manager Alvin Dark said that if third isn't settled by gametime tomorrow, he'll start Jack Sanford against the Pirates in the season's final game.

But if the contest is meaningless, then $150,000 bonus righthander Bob Garibaldi will make his first major league start. Garibaldi was supposed to do the same thing in the last game of 1962, but Los Angeles kept losing, the Giants remained in the pennant race and, of course, Dark used his regular pitchers.

Bob Veale, a tall, thin lefthander blended an assortment of slow curves for a six-hit victory last night. The Giants bunched three of the hits, including doubles by Jose Pagan and Willie McCovey, into a three-run fourth inning. But even those runs were unearned, thanks to a two-out error by rookie third baseman Gene Alley.

Willie Stargell and Bob Clemente led the Pirates' attack. Stargell homered off starter and loser Bob Bolin in the second, then rapped a two-run single during Pittsburgh's five-run third. Three of the five runs were unearned due to Orlando Cepeda's bobble of a grounder at first base.

Ron Brand singled home the two final runs in the ninth. Clemente jumped to second place in the National League batting race with four hits in five appearances. He got one safety when a routine grounder hit baserunner Bob Bailey and another on an infield chopper.

Willie Mays went 1-for-3 and Orlando Cepeda 0-for-4, thus virtually falling out of the hitting race. They're hitting .314 and .316 respectively while Tommy Davis of Los Angeles leads at .325.

Tiger-Giardello Title Fight Set

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—World middleweight boxing champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria will defend his title at Convention Hall in December against Joey Giardello of Philadelphia.

Contracts for the title match—this resort city's first—were signed yesterday by Tiger's American manager, Jersey Jones and Giardello.

Last month Tiger stopped Gene Fullmer in Nigeria in successful defense of his crown.

Promoters tentatively set Thursday, Dec. 5, for the fight but said the date may be changed to Saturday, Dec. 7, if Convention Hall is not ready in time.

Cadets Clobbered By St. Helena, 40-0

The San Rafael Military Academy Cadets couldn't stop the lengthy winning streak of the St. Helena gridders and today were still trying to pick themselves from the ground.

The Cadets fell, 40-0, as the powerful team from St. Helena racked up its 35th straight victory, this one on the winner's field, last night.

It was a dismal day for the San Rafael team, as the junior varsity Cadets also were blanked, 20-0.

Raiders Meet Jets Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — The Oakland Raiders, pass conscious all year because they have only one good runner, may be forced even more to the air against the New York Jets tonight.

Clem Daniels, Oakland's only consistent ground gainer, is a doubtful starter at halfback because he is still suffering from a thigh muscle bruise that sidelined him last week.

With Daniels out, the Raiders lost their first game of the season to Boston 20-14. They are 2-1 and third in the American Football League's western division.

Definitely out of the lineup is All-League center Jim Otto, who'll probably also miss next week's game because of an injured foot.

Tom Flores and Cotton Davidson again will share the Raider quarterbacking. Flores, who usually performs only in the second half, ranks second among AFL passers. He's completed 17 of 41 passes for 469 yards and three touchdowns.

Marin Romps Over Chico

(I-J Special Report)

CHICO—College of Marin's Tar football team swept to its first victory of the young season last night with a 38-14 victory over the Chico State College junior varsity gridders.

On the first play from scrimmage, John Shaskan ran 66 yards for a TD, but the play was called back because of a penalty. Shaskan later scored after a Tar drive, plunging over from the three.

Then Chico State scored on a pass play from Joe Heidinger to Craig Brachi. Following the Chico score, Shaskan hauled in the Chico kickoff on the eight-yard line and raced 92 yards for a touchdown.

A Bob Sparrow to John Garber pass play of 25 yards was good for another Marin TD. After tackle Don Ippolito recovered a Chico State fumble, Sparrow threw another pass to Garber, this one for 44 yards and a touchdown.

Chico State then scored on a one - yard plunge by Dave Cockerell. The Tars came back to score from the 12, Gary Bradley carrying the ball over.

Ippolito recovered another fumble on the Chico State 17-yard stripe which set up the final Marin TD, as the 255-pound tackle played an outstanding and alert game. Ray Miller, reserve Tar back, finally pushed the ball over from the four.

Marin had jumped off to a 25-8 lead before the gun ended the first quarter. The rest of the game was just icing on the Marin victory cake. The Tars' practice game slate is now even with one win and one loss.

Miss Exide Tops Field At Tahoe

STATELINE, NEV. (UPI) — Miss Exide, with Bill Brow at the wheel, was the new qualifying leader here today as boats attempted to land a berth in tomorrow's Tahoe Unlimited Regatta.

Miss Exide toured the course at an average of 112.578 m.p.h. to push ahead of Tahoe Miss (107.6) and Eagle Electric (105.7) Thursday's qualifiers.

Other boats took test runs over the course straddling the Nevada California border yesterday but chose to return to the pits and make their qualifying try today.

The race, final one in the big boat national tour this season, will determine the national point championship for both boats and drivers.

The Miss Bardahl and Gale V will battle it out for high-point boat honors.

Ron Musson of the Bardahl and Bill Cantrell of the Gale are tied for driver points, but Musson said he will not race tomorrow because he has not recovered fully from rib injuries suffered in a recent race at Madison, Wis.

Better Fishing Spots On Lakes

OTTAWA (UPI)—An East Indian tribal practice is helping make better fishing spots of lakes in the province of Saskatchewan.

The East Indians once fished by tossing derris plant roots in the water. The rotenone-rich roots caused fish to suffocate, float to the surface and be picked with ease.

Since 1959, the Saskatchewan government has been using a chemical similar to the one found in the root to clear lakes of undesirable fish before restocking them with game fish.

Brothers To Swim The Gate

Three Marin County brothers, John, Michael and Rufus Aylwin of 50 Corte Alejo, Greenbrae, will participate in the annual Dolphin Club Golden Gate Swim tomorrow for the first time.

Approximately 75 swimmers have signed up to make it the biggest turn-out in the history of the club.

Swimmers will jump off on the end of a flood tide at 10 a.m. on the San Francisco side just west of the bridge and finish at Lime Point in Marin County. The distance is seven-eighths of a mile but the swimmers actually swim about one mile.

John, 20, is a student at the College of Marin where he is on the track team. He has participated in the Dipsea race and made the Racoon Strait swim for the Dolphins this year.

Michael, 16, attends Redwood High School as a junior. He is a member of the school's cross country and track teams. He entered the Dipsea this year and the Caledonian games at Santa Rosa. He also made the Racoon Strait swim this year. Michael also made the 50-mile hike last spring at Redwood High.

Rufus, 14, is a freshman at Redwood and his record is similar to his older brothers'—track and cross country teams, Dipsea race, Racoon Strait swim and 50 mile hike. In addition he is corresponding with a real estate agent in British Columbia selling islands.

All the boys own a truck and have a company which supplied sawdust to the Meadow Club and the Santa Clara State Fair.

The first Dolphin Gate Swim was in 1917. Except for the war years it has been held annually ever since.

This year's favorite is Jim Small, 1962 winner.

Candlestick Winds Costly To Control

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It will cost another $3 to $6 million to tame the unruly winds at San Francisco's $15 million Candle stick Park—winds that once blew a pitcher off the mound.

This was the "pre-preliminary" cost estimate presented to the recreation and park commission yesterday by City Engineer Clifford Geetz.

Geetz reported that a $55,000 engineering study of the windy baseball stadium home of the Giants revealed that a proposal to level Bay View Hill and channel winds away from the park would cost an impossible $16 to $20 million.

An alternate plan to slice a 350-foot deep slot through the hill, he said, would come to about $3 million.

This cost might be eliminated, Geetz said, if the city could find someone to dig the slot free in exchange for the earth fill; but the city would still have to build two bridges across the slot at a cost of $2,720,000.

Finally, Geetz said, the other part of the proposed wind control project, the placing of a dome over Candlestick Park, would run another $800,000 to $1.5 million. The commission, expressing dismay at the amount of the estimates, voted to ask wind expert W. A. Perkins how much it would cost to take the project back to his wind tunnel for "modifications" study.

City public works director S. Myron Tatarian said that there was a possibility of first digging the slot only to street level — eliminating the need for bridges— and seeing if that helped slow the wind.

Tam, S.R. Gridders In Action Tonight

Injuns Trek To Pleasant Hill

In a game that was switched because of racial strife, the Tamalpais High School Indians will battle the footballers of Pleasant Hill tonight at 8 o'clock on the Contra Costa County team's field.

The game was originally slated to be played at College of Marin but recent racial flareups at Tam caused the school officials to switch the game to an out-of-county field.

Tam head coach Pete Belden reported his chargers have been looking sharper in practice this week, not making as many mistakes as earlier. Tam has had one practice tilt this year, losing to Pacifica of Concord, 20-0.

"We expect a good game and it is important that we win in light of our first game," said Belden. He said the extra week of practice since the first Tam game has helped the team quite a bit.

Bulldogs Invade Montgomery High

San Rafael High School's Bulldog gridders will try to end their practice game slate on the positive side tonight when they take on Montgomery High School at 8 o'clock on Bailey Field in Santa Rosa.

The game was originally scheduled for last night but was changed to tonight.

Halfback Steve Spurling, injured before the first practice game for San Rafael High, will be back in the lineup tonight after shaking off an injury. He will be used on defense only.

The Bulldogs lost their opener to Arcata High, 24-0, then outfought St. Mary's of Berkeley 7-0 in the second tilt of the year.

End Steve Jensen will still be sidelined because of an ankle injury but tackle Bill Henry will return to the lineup. Head coach Bob Muster praised the blocking ability of tackle Mike Elliott in S.R.'s first two practice tilts.

Touchdown Has Kicked Home Run Aside In Worship

By ROBERT M. ANDREWS
United Press International

With tongue planted firmly in cheek, the highly respected religious magazine, the Christion Century, suggested today that professional football has eclipsed baseball as the "Folk Religion" of Americans.

"Al the earmarks of high religion are here," said the nondenominational weekly.

"It has universalistic pretensions: Every metropolis wants a team. It has missionary zeal: Television spreads its saving word. With the annual extension of pre- and post-season activities, it will soon have a full church year.

"It has tragic heroes like Big Daddy Liscomb, sages like Paul Hornung, patriarchs like George Halas and priests like Byron "Whizzer" White, the Supreme Court justice who was once an All-American collegiate football star.

"The Green Bay Packers 'spontaneously' pray the Lord's Prayer before games (they petition most intensely, we understand, when they face Sam Huff of the Giants). All winter long pro football players visit the church banquet circuit to tell how faith undergirds them on the grid."

The sport does not lack its following of "votaries or sacrificial sufferers," said Christion Century, pointing to fans who spend Sunday afternoon in front of the TV set or a bitterly cold December day in the snow-swept stands of a pro football stadium.

The magazine said baseball can blame the New York Yankees, "secure on Olympus," for much of its loss of the surprise and suspense that once attracted droves of worshippers.

"And today's pitchers, on whom the game's pace depends, tend to dilly-dally the day away," it said.

"They indulge in Zen reverie, contemplate their navels, whirl the resin bag like a prayer wheel, and in general conform more to the norms of a post-Buddhist society than to a post-Christian one."

Perhaps the surest sign of pro football's emergence was the recent dedication of a $600,000 football Hall of Fame at Canton, Ohio.

It is, the magazine said, "a pilgrimage chapel for those who wish to pay homage to pro football's pantheon."

And, appropriately, the shrine's roof and tower are shaped like a halved football pointing skyward.

Jewish Day Of Thanks Wednesday

United Press International

Sukkoth, ancient bilblical forerunner of the American Thanksgiving, will be celebrated by Jews around the world beginning at sundown Wednesday with prayers thanking God for a plentiful harvest.

The festival, also known as Sukos after the Hebrew word for boohs, will see booths installed in homes and synagogues and richly decorated with fruits and vegetables. They will symbolize the temporary dwellings used by the Israelites in their flight from Egypt into the desert.

He had an important role in 1961 in bringing the Philippine Independent Church into full communion with the Protestant Episcopal Church of America.

Crusade Sabbath Is Next

The inter-faith origin of the United Crusade was recalled this week as preparations were made for observing the annual Crusade Sabbath next weekend.

"It all began," according to records in the Marin United Crusade office, "in 1887 in Denver. Two ministers, a priest and a rabbi, faced with growing health and charity needs of this frontier town, joined together to seek funds to support 23 charitable agencies. The idea caught on and grew through the years so that today every city and town in America has its fall united campaign."

In a letter to Marin County churches Dr. Sumner Walters, headmaster of San Rafael Military Academy and chairman of church participation for the campaign, said, "Leaders of our community are finding many ways of associating on an inter-faith basis for the good of our people. An important cooperative is the annual United Bay Area Crusade."

Dr. Walters asked that an endorsement of the United Crusade be included in announcements and church bulletins next weekend. He said he viewed the Crusade as "an association of givers who, through representatives, determine how we may help those in need, apart from our church contributions."

For the first time, the Marin County clergy forms a separate section of the professional division in this year's United Crusade campaign. The Rev. E. J. Wood, pastor of Tiburon Boulevard Baptist Church and acting president of the Marin Ministerial Fellowship, is chairman.

Honest Iowans Given Loans

NEWTON, Iowa (AP) — While Verne R. Martin of Newton was Republican state chairman several years ago he received a $100 honorarium for speaking at political seminar at Upper Iowa University in Fayette, Iowa.

Martin turned the money over to the university with the request that it be used for a "Verne Martin Cigar Box Loan Fund." Ever since, the money has been used to provide small, short-term loans to students.

No questions are asked and the students simply put IOUs in the cigar box when they borrow money. The fund has turned over hundreds of times — without a single loss.

Woman Hurt In 3-Car Smashup

Two Southern California women were injured in a three-car accident on Highway 101 near the southbound connector road to Marin City about 10:20 a.m. Thursday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Ethel Delora Harlan, 70, of Bellflower, driving south, swerved from right hand to extreme left hand lane as a car ahead of her driven by Muriel Heywood Darnall, 55, of Berkeley, slowed to enter the turnoff road to Marin City, reported officers I. D. Jump and Richard Topham.

The Harlan car sideswiped a southbound car driven by Walter Odell Calloway, 29, of 2718 Las Gallinas Avenue, Los Ranchitos. Then it swerved right again and hit the Darnall car, said the officers. They cited Mrs. Harlan for an unsafe lane change that caused an injury accident.

Mrs. Harlan was treated at Marin General Hospital for a sprained left ankle and cuts of both knees. Frances Meier, 68, of Paramount, riding with her, was treated for a neck sprain suffered when she fell out of the car.

Notary Commissioned

Notary public commissions have been issued to Sonja L. Edwards of 1330 Lincoln Avenue and W. W. Woodbridge of San Rafael, according to Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan.

WILD COAST OF NEW PARK

The Bear Valley Ranch, to be acquired by the federal government under a three-year purchase contract, includes five miles of remote coast line on the Point Reyes Peninsula. The 7,714-acre ranch will be purchased for $5,725,000. It is the third major acquisition for the 30,000-acre Point Reyes National Seashore. (See story on page 1.)

$4,000 Painting Stolen

A wash painting valued at $4,000 was reported yesterday to have been stolen from the Portal Gallery, one of the shops damaged in the fire at Sausalito's Village Fair Wednesday.

Director Barbar Prince reported to police that the 24-by-18-inch painting, "Faces in the Crowd," by artist Juan Miro was apparently stolen sometime between 6 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. Thursday. There was no sign of forced entry to the shop which is on the third level. Officers said that, since the fire, two guards from Associated Security Agency have been on duty on a 24-hour basis.

Terrence Flynn, owner of the shop, Wednesday reported $30,000 damage to his paintings by water used to quench the $200,000 fire.

Fairfax Planners To Meet On Site Above Jolly Store

A request for rezoning from single family to multiple dwelling to allow 130 houses, duplexes and apartments on an 18-acre site above the Jolly Store in Fairfax will be heard Oct. 24 by the Fairfax Planning Commission.

The proposal was discussed and the hearing date set by the planning commission Thursday night.

The discussion, chairman Dan M. Miller said, centered around the question of whether it would be better to rezone the property or draw up a new zoning district for planned development which would give the city greater control of the development.

He said a decision would be made at the Oct. 24 meeting.

The developers, Dunn-Weddel Co., had originally presented plans for 150 dwelling units. The commission last night knocked out one of the apartments because it was over the 34-foot height limitation.

The princess, 31 married divorced clothing merchant Johan Martin Ferner, 36, in 1961.

The class will meet for 12 sessions and is aimed at the parents of elementary and junior high school students.

Other classes in the adult education program will meet on other days of the week, on a twice-a-week basis from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the high school, he said. 2 Intoxicated Drivers Fined

Two drunken drivers were fined Thursday by Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municiple Court.

Authur D. Swaser, 38, of 323 Auburn Street, San Rafael, drew $276 fine and six months probation for driving while intoxicated on Highway 101 last July 18. Swaser has no valid driver's license. Even if he gets a license, his driving is restricted for six months, the judge ordered.

Joseph Owen Lackey, 36, of San Francisco paid $166 fine. He must remain on probation for six months, and his driving is restricted for three months. Lackey was arrested on Highway 101 near Terra Linda on Sept. 15.

Families Request Student Transfers

Requests from two families, one white and one Negro, were received at Tamalpais High School this week asking that one student in each family be transferred to another high school in Marin.

Police said Totten, a security guard for an aviation firm, and a local restaurant owner, killed his wife Leola, 41, and Leonard Stidman, 37.

Judge Fines Self

LANDER, Wyo. (AP) — Police Judge Fred Cook called his court to order, ruled himself guilty of running a stop sign in his car and paid a fine of $7.

Teacher Due New Hearing On Ouster

A Richardson Bay School teacher, who was dismissed by the Sausalito School District in May of 1962, should get another hearing because she may have been confused by the laws and procedures, a Marin Superior Court judge ruled Thursday.

The teacher, who is seeking reinstatement, is Mrs. Mabel Ingram Jensen. She was dismissed as fourth grade teacher last year although she contended she had received ratings of "satisfactory" or better in semi-annual evaluations durnig four years in the district. Supt. Marcus F. Davis said she was dismissed for lack of ability to motivate students, difficulty in discipline, and weakness in adapting to new situations.

Judge N. Charles Brusatori pointed out that Mrs. Jensen failed to demand a hearing in the time required by law, as amended in 1961. She therefore is not entitled to back pay.

However, he granted Mrs. Jensen another hearing because "she may have been understandably confused by the law and placed undue reliance on the professional regulations committee of the Sausalito School District, which was only a recommendatory committee."

The new hearing, before the school board, will be presided over by a state hearing officer, the judge ruled. He asked attorneys for both sides to work out a date for the hearing.

Peter T. Galiano of San Francisco represented Mrs. Jensen, while Asst. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney was attorney for the school district.

Two Marin City Men In Smashup

Two Marin City men escaped serious injury early today when a blowout caused their car to careen into a bank along Highway 101, just south of the Richardson Bay Bridge.

C. A. Blanton Jr., 24, of 315 Drake Avenue, a passenger, suffered minor injuries, but refused medical treatment, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Shepard Page, 24, of 163 Drake Avenue was driving southbound shortly after 5 a.m. when the accident occurred.

HOME FROM SCHOOL, these girls receive a warm and friendly greeting from their house mother. The scene is the Sunny Hills group home, established two years ago without publicity. Its purpose: To provide six of the girls from Sunny Hills with a true home environment as a "stepping stone" to a future normal way of life outside the treatment center. A Stepping Stone To Normal Living

A Sunny Hills Experiment In Group Living Proves Success

As a way to raise funds for a good cause, the Sunny Hills Grape Festival is one of Marin's oldest traditions. It was started in 1899 and has been going and growing ever since.

But the purpose for which profits from next Saturday's festival at San Anselmo will be used is as modern as 1963.

OPERATED AS an orphanage from 1895 until 1955, Sunny Hills is now a non-sectarian home and treatment center for emotionally-disturbed children from six Bay Area counties. The Grape Festival supplies approximately 10 per cent of the operating budget, and other funds come from the United Bay Area Crusade and the counties which send children to Sunny Hills.

This year the Grape Festival will help to support a pioneering idea launched in 1961.

This idea is a group home

Guarantee my family immediate financial security?

How?

With your life insurance . . . and the help your agent is trained to give you!

YOU: You mean I had this security the moment I got my policy?

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE AGENT: That's right. Your financial estate immediately increased by the full amount of the policy.

YOU: Though I'd only paid the first premium?

AGENT: Yes, and there's another point, too.

YOU: What's that?

AGENT: Well, suppose there were no such thing as life insurance. You'd still want to provide financial security for your family, wouldn't you?

YOU: Naturally.

AGENT: Then think how much you would have to save—even to attempt this. Think how long it would take to save the amount you needed.

YOU: I get it. My life insurance immediately guaranteed my family more money than I could save in years.

AGENT: Exactly. That's one of the unique advantages of life insurance.

AFTER SCHOOL, one of the girls has a snack as she reads while her companion looks for just the right tune to play on the piano. The scene could be any Bay Area home—except that in the Sunny Hills group home there are six teen-age "sisters" who share the life there.

THE GRAPE FESTIVAL: A MARIN TRADITION

The 1963 Grape Festival, annual fund-raising event for the Sunny Hills home and treatment center for emotionally disturbed children, will be held next Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the Sunny Hills grounds in San Anselmo.

Of the nearly 100 colorfully-decorated booths, 30 will be located in the children's gayway or "Funland," where games, a merry-go-round, ferris wheel and pony ride will be featured. The Sunny Hills Junior Guild is in charge of this part of the festival.

In the main area, there will be booths operated by 37 of the 38 Sunny Hills guilds. To be offered are hundreds of homecrafted items and home-kitchen foods.

The 38th guild, Entertainment, will conduct the annual amateur talent show at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., with the finals at 2 p.m.

A Sunny Hills Experiment In Group Living Succeeds

for teen-age girls—the first of its kind in the immediate Bay Area.

THE GROUP HOME experiment can now be publicized, according to Mrs. Robert Kettenbach, president of the Sunny Hills board of directors, because it has proved itself.

"We are convinced that it pays off" is her verdict after two years. "Even with the expected, and unexpected, problems, the girls have shown remarkable progress in self-reliance, dignity, emotional serenity, purposefulness, and, most of all, in their efforts to create a home for themselves. And they love it."

Six girls live in the home with a house mother. They are still under the jurisdiction of Sunny Hills, however, and receive the specialized services of its social workers and other staff members.

AS FAR AS possible, the lives of the girls are as normal as those of their contemporaries who live with their own families. Thus they begin to sense what it means to live in a home where they are responsible for the chores of the average teen-ager.

They go to school, help to plan and cook their own meals, go shopping and have friends in to share hospitality. They actually "belong" to the community in which they live.

"MORE DIRTY DISHES?" the girl at the kitchen sink asks in disbelief as another puts clean dishes away in the cupboard. Just as though they were teen-agers residing with their families, the girls of the Sunny Hills group home share in the performance of household chores.

The group home was opened in August, 1961, in a rented house. Members of the San Francisco Sunny Hills Guild furnished it, and the girls who were to live there shared in the work of cleaning and washing windows.

OF THE SIX original resident girls, two have now graduated. One of the two is married and the other is working in a San Francisco business office.

This is the proof of the pudding, since the purpose of the home—and of the entire Sunny Hills program—is to return the children to a normal way of life. The home provides a "stepping stone" from institutional living and dependence.

"Group home living for teen-agers is an exciting and increasingly-recognized need in the field of caring for emotionally-handicapped youngsters," Mrs. Kettenbach says. "We are being watched with interest by others in the field."

IN ADDITION to the essential purpose of helping to return to normal lives, two reasons are cited for the importance of the group home: One is the dwindling supply of foster homes because of the nature of American life today with its mobile population and shrinking houses. The other is that for many adolescents whose lives have been distorted by serious emotional problems, foster home living is not possible.

Homes for small groups are therefore the answer.

Plans at Sunny Hills call for establishing a similar home for boys this fall.

THE PIN-UP PICTURES, nick-nacks, frilly curtains and radio make this scene look very much like any teen-age girls' room. It is actually a part of the group home that, as a "branch" of the Sunny Hills home and treatment center for emotionally-disturbed children, will benefit from next Saturday's Grape Festival in San Anselmo. He Remembers Olds When It Was Young

Parker F. Wood Recalls The Day 1904 Car Arrived

By DON KEOWN

Parker F. Wood gazed thoughtfully at the 1904 Oldsmobile.

"She's changed very little in nearly 60 years," he decided.

Then smiling: "I wish I could say as much for the rest of us old-timers."

WOOD WAS at Scripture Oldsmobile Inc. on Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, inspecting the vintage Olds which was once the property of the late Wilbur Thayer and which now belongs to the Marin County Historical Society.

The car which came to Marin six decades ago fresh from the factory and selling for $650 was being "prettied up" and "tuned up" by Scripture mechanics in preparation for its appearance tomorrow at the Concours d'Elegance to be held at Peacock Gap under sponsorship of the Marin County Florence Crittenton Circle.

WOOD WAS thinking back 59 years as he looked with affection at the curved-dash Oldsmobile with its one-cylinder horizontal gasoline engine.

"I remember the day three of us went to San Francisco to pick up this Olds. Now the car and I are the only survivors."

Wood's companions on that trip were Wilbur Thayer and Julia Sommers, who later was to become Mrs. Thayer. Both the Thayers are now deceased.

WOOD, THEN a teen-ager, was an employee of A. I. Thayer and Sons, the business which Alvin Thayer and sons Wilbur and Clifford operated first as a bicycle repair and small machine shop, later as an automobile dealership and garage.

Wood recalls: "Alvin Thayer and his son Clifford were clever mechanics, while it was Wilbur who had the business head. He had been with Wells Fargo, and when he left that firm to join his father and brother, he brought with him the San Francisco Examiner agency."

It was this "sideline" enterprise which was to lead young Thayer ultimately to the acquisition of the car.

"BELIEVE IT or not," Wood says, "that paper route in San Rafael was 13 miles long."

Thayer for a time made his deliveries in a two-wheel gig pulled by one horse. So well-trained was the horse, Wood remembers, that it was Thayer's custom to wrap the reins around its neck and free his own hands for the folding and throwing of his newspapers. Without guidance, the horse wandered from one side of the street to the other, as the location of the homes of Examiner customers demanded.

"That horse knew exactly where to go, and never made a mistake," Wood says.

"BUT ONE fine day the first automobile came to town and things began to change," Wood remembers. "Soon we had several, most of them steam-powered Locomobiles. These first steam cars, however, were not too popular with the general citizenry, since they required a high degree of skill to operate. Later the Stanley and White steamers overcame many of the objections and achieved a reasonable degree of popularity."

Wilbur Thayer decided that what he needed to expedite the delivery of his newspapers was an automobile. But he rejected the more common steam-driven horseless carriages in favor of the gasoline-powered Oldsmobile with its nine horsepower and maximum speed of 20 miles per hour.

Often regarded as the first "mass-produced" car, its proud makers advertised it: "It has no equal!"

WOOD REMEMBERS that his inclusion in the party to pick up the new car in San Francisco was almost an after-thought.

"At first, Wilbur and Julia had planned to make the trip alone," he says. "Then, at the last moment, Wilbur decided it would be a good thing to have a fellow along if there was a puncture or some other kind of trouble. So he called me up and invited me to make the trip with them."

The trip to San Francisco was made by the broad-gauge railroad and ferryboat from Tiburon. The return journey was not without its problems.

THE FERRYBOAT captain and crew, distrustful of the new mode of travel, insisted that every drop of gasoline be drained from the new Olds at a safe distance before they would allow it on board their craft. It was loaded only after all passengers and baggage were safely aboard, and was then pushed by deckhands onto the lower deck, on through the boat and far out onto the front deck.

Then a nervous deckhand stood by with a bucket of water, alert against the possibility of fire or explosion, all the way to Tiburon.

And there, after all passengers were safely off the boat, the captain again insisted the car be pushed a considerable distance from his craft before it was refueled with the gasoline which had been drained from its tank earlier.

THINKING BACK, Wood says: "Judging from the way the captain and crew behaved, it might very well have been the very first car their ferryboat had ever carried."

From Tiburon to San Rafael the remainder of the trip was made uneventfully on the old dirt carriage road. The Olds climbed the two ridges without undue difficulty.

"There were quite a number of the one-cylinder cars back in those days," Wood

IT WAS A LONG TIME between rides for Parker F. Wood, pioneer San Rafael resident, as he perched on the seat of the 1904 Oldsmobile belonging to the Marin County Historical Society. Wood accompanied the car's original owner, Wilbur Thayer, and Julia Sommers, who was to become Mrs. Thayer, on the trip to San Francisco 59 years ago to pick up the new automobile. It will be featured at tomorrow's Concours d'Elegance at the Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club on Marin Bay.

60 Years Between Drives

says, "and when the manufacturers first went up to two cylinders, we all thought that was the limit. We were sure they wouldn't be able to go any higher than that. And then, some one invented the magneto, and at one time they were turning out cars with as many as 16 cylinders."

ONE OF THE first changes Wilbur Thayer made in his new car, upon reaching San Rafael, was to install a box to hold his newspapers.

The Olds was a four-seater with the rear seats facing backwards—"a dos-a-dos, we called them," Wood says. Thayer removed those rear seats to make room for the box.

Wood, who frequently assisted Thayer with his newspaper deliveries, especially with the bulky Sunday editions, during the days of the gig and horse, continued to help out from time to time after the Oldsmobile was put into operation.

THE CAR WAS especially suited to its assignment in one respect. It was guided by a tiller instead of a steering wheel. Thus, the man at the "controls" could steer the tiller with his knees, leaving both hands free to roll and throw papers.

"I drove it that way a good many times around that paper route," Wood recalls.

The streets were unpaved and rough. And in the winter, mud became a problem.

The Olds also served other purposes.

"WE USED to use it to go out and 'rescue' other automobiles which had broken down out on the roads," Wood says.

He adds: "The dry cell storage batteries were the most frequent source of trouble. And I can remember riding a bicycle to deliver a good many batteries to stalled motorists."

DEMONSTRATING THE technique he employed in delivering newspapers in the 1904 Olds nearly 60 years ago is Parker F. Wood. He steered the vehicle with the tiller between his knees, thus freeing both hands for the wrapping and throwing of the papers. Wood as a teenager frequently assisted the late Wilbur Thayer in his 13-mile paper delivery route.

JOINING PARKER WOOD in an examination of the one-cylinder gasoline engine of the 1904 Oldsmobile is Robert Gillespie, service manager of Scripture Oldsmobile, Inc., San Rafael. The vintage automobile underwent a "face-lifting" and "tune-up" at Scripture in preparation for tomorrow's appearance at the Concours d'Elegance.

Perhaps it was the success of Wilbur's Olds—"the first commercially-used automobile in Marin," according to some local historians — that caused the Thayers to become increasingly interested in the automotive field. A second building was erected on D Street and connected with the original building facing Fourth. Most of the automobile work was carried on in the D Street structure, and it became an increasingly dominant interest of the business.

LATER THE Thayers were to obtain the Cadillac agency and operate from a new location at Fourth and Cijos.

Parker Wood graduated from high school in 1905 and his career as an employee of Thayer and Sons ended as he began a new one in San Francisco with a real estate firm.

Later he was to sell mining machinery, operate a marine diesel business, serve as a San Rafael city councilman, be a riverboat captain and do technical engineering work.

NOW RETIRED, he lives at 845 Belle Avenue, San Rafael. But, at 77, he is just taking up new responsibilities as curator of the Marin County Historical Society Museum in Boyd Park.

Wood remembers that it was not until 1923 or 1924—as a Stockton resident—that he bought his own first car. And then he bought two.

"I got a Model T Ford for business use, a Buick for home," he says .

But it is apparent that the 1904 Thayer Oldsmobile, the first car he drove, is also still first in his heart.

Admirers of vintage automobiles can see it for themselves at tomorrow's Concours d'Elegance when the historical society, to whom the vintage car was presented in the late 1940s by owner Thayer, exhibits its pride and joy at the big car show at Marin Bay.

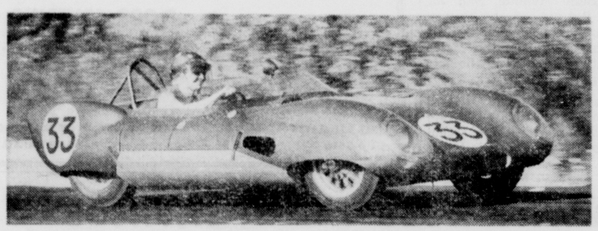
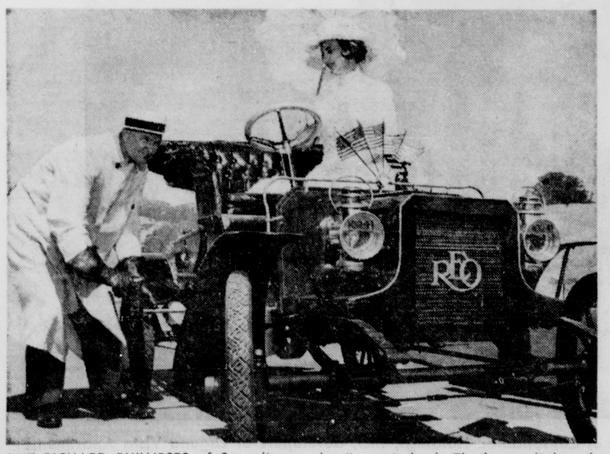
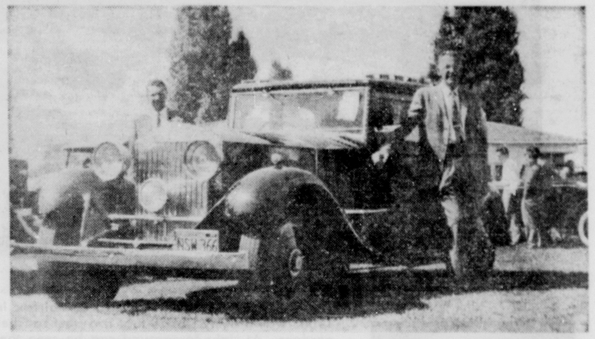
THE RARE 1938 PACKARD Town Car to be shown by W. H. Friedrich of El Cerrito at tomorrow's Concours d'Elegance is described in the Rollston brochure thusly: "An all-weather panel Brougham, body by Rollston . . . available on the Packard Eight chassis of 127-inch wheelbase only." Interior is padded in doeskin broadclothe with matched burled walnut door panels and twin vanities. Other features: Two recessed occasional seats and foot hassocks, storage compartment, retractable microphone and chauffeur's compartment lined in black leather with deep line carpet to match. Top is removable, and designed in the compact front seat is a tubular holder for umbrella and walking stick.



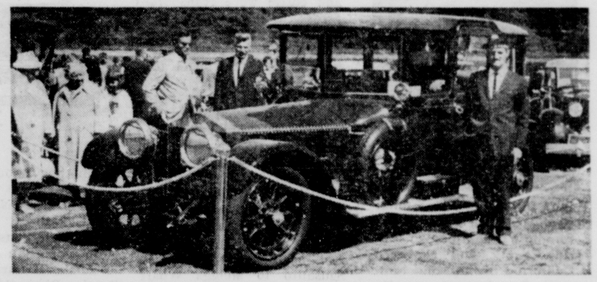
A COMPETITION CAR ot be judged at Peacock Gap tomorrow is the Lotus MK II with its OSCA (Italian) engine, owned and driven by Prudence Baxter of Sausalito, one of the sport's top women racing drivers. Purchased new in 1959, the car has been a consistent winner and has clinched the Pacific Coast championship in its division. With three first places at Nassau, the car will make the trip there again this year for that big invitational event.



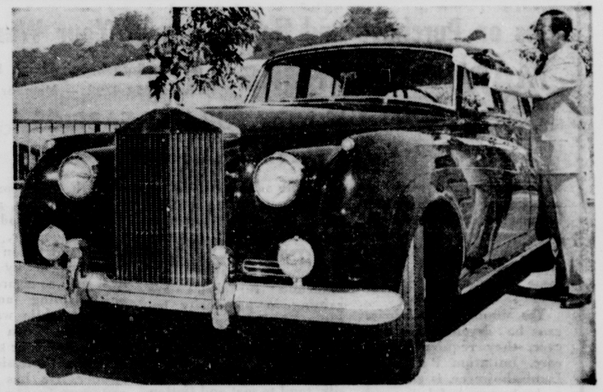
THE RICHARD PHILLIPSES of Sausalito are the second owners of this one-cylinder 1906 Reo, a "gentleman's roadster" complete with a "mother-in-law" seat in back. The brassy little red car was originally purchased by the Grant family just before the 1906 earthquake and barged up the Petaluma River to St. Helena.



AMONG THE ROLLS-ROYCES in tomorrow's car classic at Peacock Gap will be the 1932 Park-Ward sun-roof salon belonging to Stewart S. Blanc of San Francisco, the regional chairman of the Northern California Rolls-Royce Owners' Club. Blanc, right, a College of Marin graduate, imported the car in 1957. It was first owned by Countess Reventlow. Horsepower: 20 to 25. Mileage: 213,000 miles.



CERTAIN TO BE ONE of the prime points of interest at the Concours d'Elegance is this 1913 Rolls-Royce Silver Ghost Town Carriage, now owned by British Motor Cars of San Francisco. Manufactured in 1912, coachwork by Mulliner, it has body and hood of aluminum, fenders of steel. Weight is 4,380 pounds, wheelbase 143½ inches, six cylinders, a No. 59-Z engine of 48 horsepower, and 12-volt dual ignition.



STILL ANOTHER representative of the regal Rolls-Royce family in the Concours d'Elegance will be this 1959 Rolls Black Silver Cloud, to be entered by E. F. Sweeney British Cars. Jim Ryan, Sports Car Club of America, does a bit of polishing on the already-gleaming automobile.

Marin Transportation — Before And After The Car

THE ROAD FROM SAN ANSELMO to Fairfax in the early 1900s was a dusty ribbon that ran past ranches and truck gardens. At right foreground can be seen the San Francisco Presbyterian Orphanage and Farm opened Jan. 8, 1900, on 28 acres donated by Capt. Robert Dollar. It had formerly been located in San Rafael.

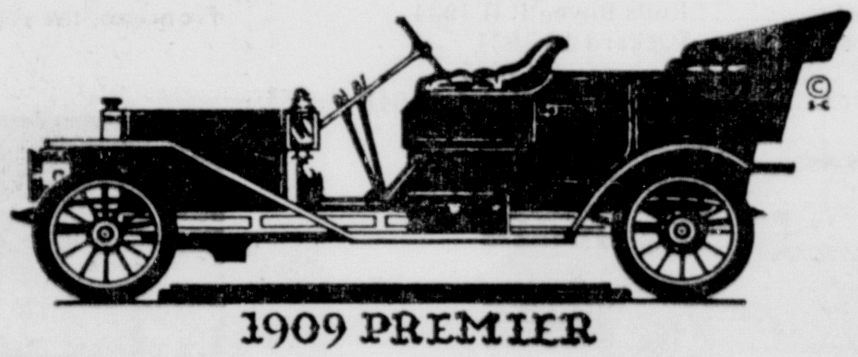
By ROY D. GRAVES

In the late 1850s and the 1860s wagons, carts, horses and cattle were transported across the bay from Marin to Contra Costa and San Francisco on flat barges towed by tugs. Later ferryboats took over those duties.

Charles Minturn ran a ferry line from Point San Quentin to Point Isabella on the Contra Costa shore, and to San Francisco at the famous Meiggs Wharf between Powell and Mason streets in North Beach.

The Saucelito Land & Ferry Co. ran a ferry line from the foot of Princess Street in Sausalito to Meiggs Wharf and carried horses and small vehicles.

THE FERRY companies charged for a single passenger, for one horse, one cow, or another amount for more than one.



1909 PREMIER

When the North Pacific Coast Railroad built northward from Sausalito toward San Rafael, San Anselmo and to northern Marin on to the Russian River, it built a wharf at Sausalito where the steamer Berkeley, now the Trade Fair, is now berthed. It, too, transported horses and buggies to and from San Francisco. The railroad's small steamer, Tamalpais (the first), could take only one or two small teams.

In 1877 the railroad built two luxurious ferryboats which were twins. One was named Saucelito (the old spelling), the other San Rafael.

THESE FERRIES were luxurious not only for the passengers, but for the horses that were taken across the bay as well.

When a carriage with horses arrived on the dock, the horse or horses were unhitched from the vehicle and led to stalls provided aboard the boat for them. The buggy or wagon was turned around and backed aboard the boat by the deckhands.

There was another stall aboard the San Rafael for the boat's horse, named Dick, who always stayed aboard and was used to haul milk and baggage trucks off the boat up the steep gangway.

WHEN THE new Sausalito was put on the run in 1894 she could carry several teams as she was a "double-ender," which meant that the teams could come aboard facing forward and then be driven off at the other terminal in the same direction that they had come aboard.

The San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad, the "Broad Gauge," that ran from Tiburon to San Rafael and on to Ukiah, also took teams to and from Tiburon and San Francisco on their ferry Tiburon.

That line had an ingenious railroad car fitted up to take one or two buggies with their horses or one large van or truck with two horses. It was dubbed "the Elephant Car" and had a special track or spur at both San Rafael and Tiburon where the car would be backed up to an inclined ramp whose top was even with the floor of the car up which the horses and wagons would be driven. Doors on the end of the cars would then be closed and Dobbin and the wagon would ride to Tiburon to the ramp at that end and down to the ground and on to the ferry.

LARGE furniture vans would sometimes stay in the Elephant Car to be transported to San Francisco on the large freight ferry Ukiah where they were put ashore at a ramp at Lombard Street.

At the turn of the century, about 1901 and 1902, one or two "prosperous" venturers plunged to the tune of a few hundred dollars to purchase one of those newfangled "horseless carriages."

How to get them to Marin County was a problem as the ferry lines were wary about transporting them on the boats. They were allowed on board, only two to each trip, after the gasoline tanks were emptied into cans, the automobile pushed aboard by the deckhands, one up to the tip of the bow of the boat and the other at the edge of the stern of the boat.

THIS WAS A precaution so that if anything should hap-

"CAN THE NEW FUR-LIKE FABRICS BE DRY CLEANED?"

Your question will be asked more and more often because of the growing demand for simulated fur garments and trim. We answered it to some extent some months ago, but it bears repeating.

Yes, simulated fur fabrics can be drycleaned, however, they require special care. Imitation Persian Lamb, however, is glued to a background fabric and cannot be drycleaned because the adhesive dissolves in drycleaning solvent. Other simulated furs with woven or knit backings may be drycleaned.

Reports are that these luxurious fur-fabrics are gaining in popularity because of their appearance, light-weight, warmth and low cost. Remember, fur-fabric, excepting those of silk, tend to mat and flatten down. The degree depends upon the fiber content, fabric construction, amount of wear and method of cleaning. Remember, too, that Dynal and Orlon pile may be damaged by excessive heat such as cigarette burns or steaming and being touched while warm from the steam. Turn your fabric garment over to the care of your professional drycleaner. He has the skill and experience to clean it properly.

pen to the boat, such as a collision or fire, the autos could be pushed overboard.

The cans of gasoline were kept in the boat's lamp locker and again dumped into the autos' tanks after the vehicles were pushed ashore and out of the way of the boat.

Later on four machines were allowed, two at the bow and two at the stern.

After the 1906 fire and earthquake in San Francisco many of the people who were burned out moved to Marin County. Some had autos and others bought one later. More and more autos appeared on the old dusty county roads, looking like a traveling cyclone.

IMPROVEMENTS had to be done to the roads so about the middle of 1906 a contract was let to resurface the road from Sausalito to Corte Madera. Work started on this project and quite a bit of criticism was expressed about all this expense to build a smooth road for "those gas buggies." But through the road did go, and many remember the torturous ride over the Corte Madera grade on the weekends, coming home on Sunday afternoon.

In the 1920s and 1930s autos would be backed up "bumper-to-bumper" from Sausalito to well over the Corte Madera grade.

The ferryboats would still only take four cars, so the wait was hours and hours long to get in place to go on board. Many wise ones would leave their cars in a garage in Sausalito, go over to San Francisco on the ferry as a passenger and return Monday afternoon to Sausalito.

AN AUTO ferry started from Point Richardson to Point San Quentin in the early 1920s. This took all the autos the boat could carry, so that helped the East Bay travel.

It was not until the 1930s that a new company known as the Golden Gate Ferry Co. built a diesel-driven ferryboat which took capacity loads. Other boats were built by this company so that the auto jam at Sausalito was partially relieved. This company took most of the auto business away from the Northwestern Pacific boats so that they too began taking the autos that could be safely put aboard.

Building fine highways increased the number of automobiles on the roads in Marin until the back jam on Sundays became a grave problem.

THIS WAS solved, for a time, by the building of the Golden Gate Bridge and the new Highway 101, the Richardson Bay Bridge, over the hill east of Alto to Greenbrae and through San Rafael on the causeway over Puerto Suello to the north.

The bridge across the Golden Gate spelled the death knell of the ferries and electric trains that served Marin County for so many years.

With our new cities and towns rising overnight in the county, with each family having two or more cars, what will be the future of transportation in Marin?

Will we have to take to flying?

LONG BEFORE THE car became a common sight in Marin County, the county had its roads and transportation — one of them the stagecoach. This stage ran from West Point on Mt. Tamalpais to Stinson Beach and Bolinas. Passengers could continue on from West Point to Mill Valley by the mountain railway, then ride the regular train to Sausalito and board a ferryboat for San Francisco. Funeral Vehicles Of Another Era

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Unless you are an undertaker or an undertaker's helper, you probably will ride in a hearse only once and will not remember much about it.

But there will be a memorable hearse in the Concours d'Elegance tomorrow at Peacock Gap. There a hearse, dating from the 1880s, will be displayed by County Coroner Frank Keaton.

The Studebaker hearse, designed to be drawn by two horses, was much like the hearses used in Marin County at the turn of the century, Keaton says.

THE HEARSE, about 18 feet long and 10 feet high, has brass fittings, glass panels at the side and back of the casket compartment and brass flower-holders.

Keaton acquired the hearse several years ago when he was traveling in the East. While in Detroit, Mich., he heard about a barn that was to be torn down. Inside the barn was the hearse, a funeral carriage for the family of the deceased and an old sleigh. All were suspended from the rafters of the barn. They had been there for years.

Keaton went to the nearby town where the barn was and inspected the vehicles.

"THEY ARE irreplacable," Keaton says. Being in a mortuary business taken over by his father in San Rafael in 1920, Keaton has always had an interest in artifacts, tracing their history.

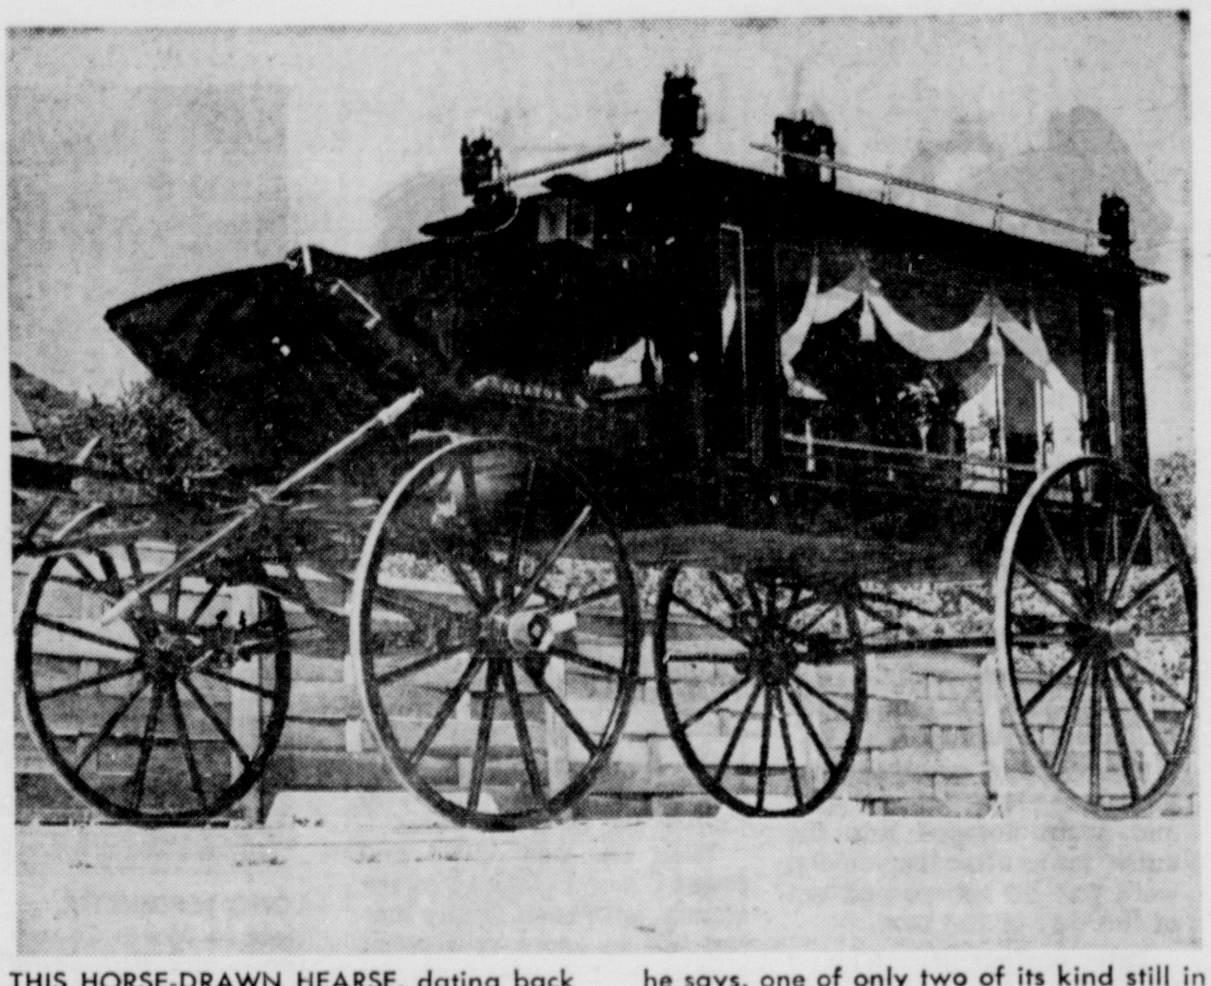
He purchased the three vehicles and had them shipped home. Then he had them reconditioned. This was about 15 years ago.

The Concours d'Elegance will provide the third public showing of the hearse. It was paraded at the Novato Western Weekend once and at the West Marin Junior Livestock Show in Point Reyes Station once.

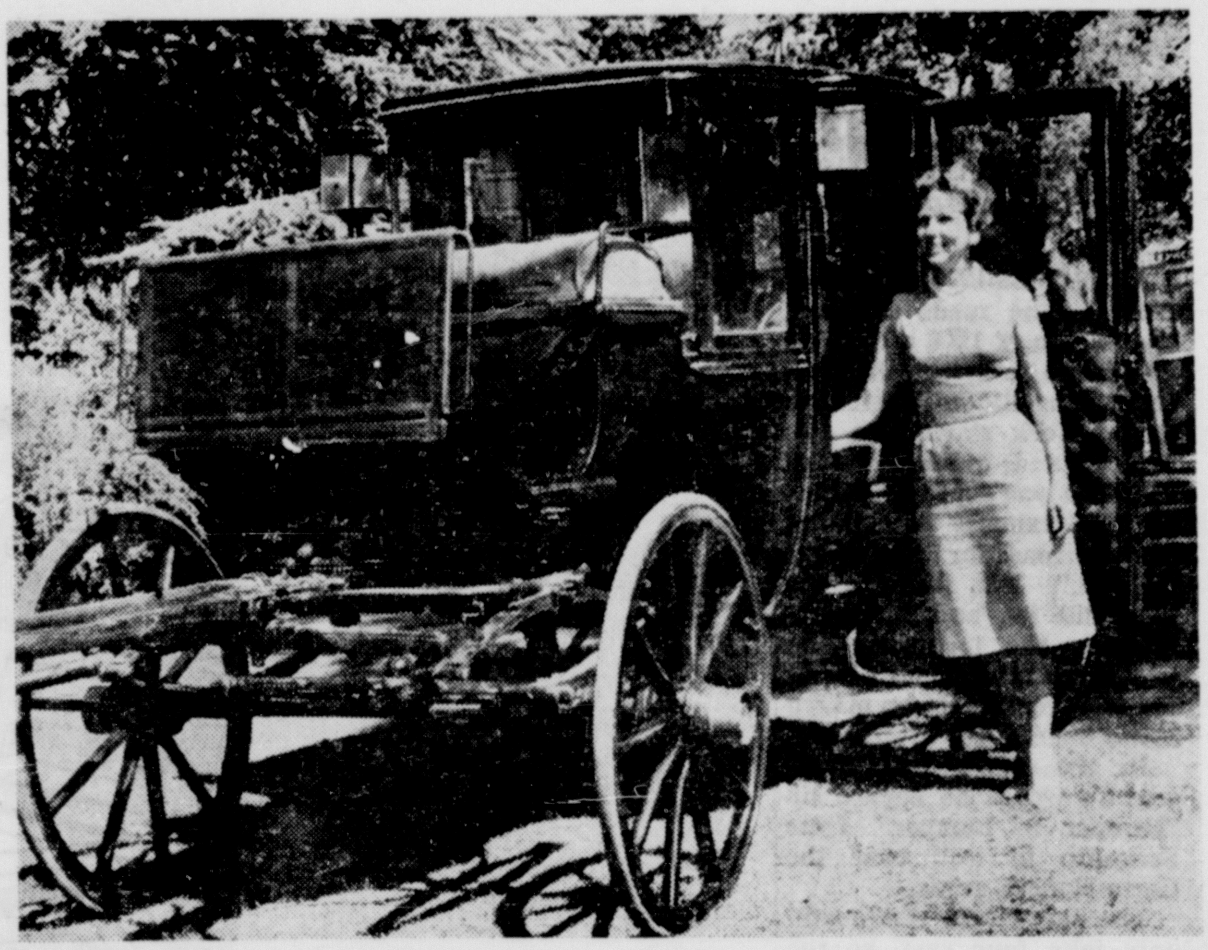
"IT IS DIFFICULT to find horses and even more difficult to find harness," Keaton said. He probably will not put the vehicles in parades again for this reason.

Keaton says there is only one other hearse like his still in existence. This is one at Carson City, Nev., and it is in very poor repair, Keaton adds.

So, if you want to see a hearse to remember, the opportunity will come tomorrow at the concours show. But it will just be for looking. Don't ask for any free rides. That is not in the program.



THIS HORSE-DRAWN HEARSE, dating back to the 1880s, is owned by Marin County Coroner and mortician Frank Keaton. It is, he says, one of only two of its kind still in existence. It will be on display at tomorrow's Concours d'Elegance at Peacock Gap.



ALSO A PART of the Frank Keaton collection and acquired at the same time as the hearse is this family funeral carriage. Mrs. Frank Keaton poses beside that vehicle from another era.

Something Timely For Auto Buffs

By DON KEOWN

If your interest in the cars of an earlier era is stimulated by the vintage vehicles on display at the Concours d'Elegance at Peacock Gap this weekend, you might be interested in picking up a copy of Stanley K. Yost's "They Don't Build Cars Like They Used To!"

Automobile historian Yost has compiled not an all-encompassing volume covering all the pioneer automobiles and their technical aspects, but rather a specialized look at some of the unusual features of these early cars.

Some were laughably impractical. Some were ingeniously practical. Some were the forerunners of present-day developments. And some have come down to the present-day virtually unchanged.

With the aid of illustrations from some of the top automotive libraries, Yost discusses the unusual features and influence of 94 cars ranging from the 1899 Haynes-Apperson horseless carriage which featured a stuffed horse's head affixed to its front to the successful three-wheeled 1913 Wagenhalls.

Some other inclusions: The plush 1917 Majestic with everything from a cigar lighter to an ice box; the leather-tired 1915 Ingram-Hatch; the 1907 Lozier with its water-cooled brakes; the 1903 Orient Buckboard which was the ancestor of all the compacts; the 1917 Woods Dual Power with its self-charging electric motor; the 1903 Charter which used gasoline and water, half and half, as its engine fuel; the 1915 Cartercar; the 1935 Scarab, and the eight-wheeled 1912 Octoauto.

Automobile buffs will find the book fascinating reading. And even those who fall outside that category cannot help but be interested in this collection of unusual facts and photos.

THEY DON'T BUILD CARS LIKE THEY USED TO! by Stanley K. Yost, Wayside Press, 206 pages, $4.75.

THE VENETIAN AFFAIR by Helen MacInnes, Harcourt, Brace and World, 405 pages, $5.95.

SCOTLAND-BORN, American-naturalized Helen MacInnes has achieved a reputation as an author of suspense novels tied to contemporary international events with her "Decision at Delphi," "North From Rome," "Assignment in Brittany," "Above Suspicion" and other books.

Her latest, "The Venetian Affair," is cut to her usual pattern with the usual strong points and the usual weaknesses.

The scene is Paris and Venice. Newspaperman Bill Fenner becomes involved with U.S. and British agents in an effort to thwart a Communist conspiracy.

Both Miss MacInnes' interpretation of the cold war maneuvering and politics and her characterizations are naive. Ideological considerations are simplified to the grade school level. Characters are one dimensional, the Western agents dedicated, and cleancut (when male) or beautiful (when female), the Communists coldly devious, treacherous and murderous. How our intelligence must wish it were that simple to separate the good guys from the bad!

But we feel certain Miss MacInnes does not intend her novels as serious portrayals of the contemporary international scene, despite hints to the contrary by her publisher. Her books are more likely meant to serve simply as good escapist reading. And there they fit the bill very well.

So sit back and enjoy fast action and romance set against a colorful European background, and forget the tissue thin characters and their unrealistic involvement. You will find yourself swept up in an exciting adventure yarn and it will matter little that the book can hardly be accepted as serious fiction or comment upon current affairs. That you can get elsewhere from tougher, more credible novelists than the entertaining Miss MacInnes.

CRY HAVOC by Richard Martin Stern, Charles Scribner's Sons, 184 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Richard Martin Stern's "Cry Havoc" is a tough, realistic crime story, a sound and puzzling mystery and a penetrating psychological study of the searing effects of fear and prejudice upon the population of a small town.

It is also an outstanding effort by a thoroughly professional writer—several notches above the usual suspense novel.

Rape is committed in the New York town of Rockville. One result is an intensifying of the enmity between townspeople and the servicemen who man a nearby Army installation. Another is the exposure of the skeletons in the closets of some of the town's most prominent families.

In this tense atmosphere Police Chief Sam Walters, not without personal problems of his own, strives to find the rapist before further tragedy can occur.

Allan Melhado has provided an unusually striking and effective jacket design for a novel highly deserving of such special treatment.

WITH MURDER IN MIND by Jan Roffman, Crime Club, 192 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

In newcomer Jan Roffman's mystery, "With Murder in Mind," the real puzzle is which of several potential killers will get to Edward Hammond first.

Set in England, it is the story of one Edward Hammond whose greed and arrogance have brought him wealth and enemies. The latter range from his brother's attractive widow to an insignificant little real estate salesman named Albert. And several of them are harboring lethal plans for the unpleasant Mr. Hammond.

It is a promising debut in the suspense novel field. Characterizations are especially good, the suspense aspect satisfactorily handled.

Much like Mickey Spillane in style, author Galvin Lyall tells of a fast and exciting life lived by his hero, free-lance pilot Bill Cary.

The setting is northern Finland, along the forbidden zone of the Russian frontier. Here in an area of savage isolation, the hero runs into trouble with both the Finnish and British secret services, as well as a major underworld character for whose murder he is blamed.

An American millionaire, big game hunter, and his sister more or less complete the varied cast. The latter supplying romance for our hero.

STILL FLYING AND NAILED TO THE MAST by William Bronson, Doubleday and Co., 188 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

When a firm completes 100 years in business, it generally considers itself entitled to a "corporate biography" of some sort, especially if it is one of the giants in its industry. Firemen's Fund Insurance Co. got something a bit above the usual run in "Still Flying and Nailed to the Mast."

Oakland-born author William Bronson makes an interesting, and sometimes exciting, book out of the growth of Firemen's Fund from its small beginning in San Francisco of 1862. The book is lavishly illustrated with photographs of old California, of fires and disasters, of sailing ships and war at sea. Many of them have only a very tenuous connection with the story, but they add mightily to the book's interest.

A story of Firemen's Fund necessarily has its Marin angles. The current president, two directors, and four other top officials of the company live in Marin. And Marin sights of old have not been neglected among the photos.

One will learn quite a bit about Firemen's Fund (assets 653 million dollars) in "Still Flying and Nailed to the Mast," but he won't learn much about the insurance business. This is probably for the best. There are human stories, and a good deal of history, in author Bronson's book—much more interesting than a lot of technical stuff about the insurance business.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

Previous articles explained some of the tests our service department makes when servicing components. One of the new service problems in our field is the alignment and adjustment of the MULTIPLEX section of the stereo FM receivers.

The multiplex section is a rather complex piece of electronic gear. Its job is to unscramble the stereo signal that is received on FM and deliver two completely separate sound tracks to the audio section. If the alignment of the multiplex unit is off even a very slight amount, the separation between right and left channels is greatly reduced. If the alignment is more than slightly off, then there will be very little separation between right and left, and in addition there will be distortion of the signal.

The alignment and checking of multiplex requires a very elaborate instrument called a multiplex generator. This instrument is calibrated to exacting standards and held to exact frequencies with little items called crystals. With this generator, the service technician can introduce a multiplex signal into an FM tuner or receiver, and send a signal only into the left sound track and no signal into the right sound track. By viewing the output of the tuner or receiver on an oscilloscope, the technician can see what comes through on the left and how much if any comes through on the right channel. He can make this same test by introducing a signal only into the right and none into the left. If the separation of the multiplex unit is poor or, if there is distortion, the test will indicate that alignment or repair is necessary.

By introducing several precise frequencies, one at a time from the multiplex generator, the various circuits in the multiplex unit are individually adjusted. Then by adding a signal of equal amounts on the left and right channels, the multiplex unit in the receiver is adjusted for exact balance between channels. Finally, by adding a tone into one side only and then the other side only, precise adjustments are made that will lock the multiplex unit in the receiver onto the signal to give the maximum amount of separation and minimum distortion.

High quality home music system components can provide your family with the finest sound. To keep the sound at its best it should be entrusted in the hands of an expert with the necessary experience and test equipment.

The Stereo Scene With Sunier

WE SEE, Thelonious Monk— PRESTIGE Stereo PR 7245; HISTORICALLY SPEAKING, Gerry Mulligan— PRESTIGE Stereo PR 7251; THE ORIGINAL QUINTET, Miles Davis —PRESTIGE Stereo PR 7254:

Three fine albums by jazzdom's three "M's" have been brought off the shelves where they had been acquiring an increasing layer of neglect due to being pre-stereo recordings, and have been remastered for a more realistic imitation-stereo effect and rereleased to the hip public.

Thelonious Monk's effort was put together in 1954 and finds the pianist in the company of two groups, one on each side of the disc. Group 1 features Frank Foster's tenor and Ray Copeland's trumpet. Group 2 swings with Sonny Rollins on tenor and Julius Watkins on French horn. I particularly enjoyed Side 2, which opens with the weird "Let's Call This," and then presents two different "takes" of "Think of One." This practice of releasing two or more takes of the same tune on an LP is not often followed anymore, and it was a most interesting demonstration of the art of improvization.

Gerry Mulligan's release needs very little discussion, same as his music. It was taped in 1951 with an octet plus maracas. George Wallington's piano is a standout. Side 2 of the album is occupied by a single track, "Mulligan's Too," which is highlighted by some delightful interchanges between Gerry and saxman Allen Eager.

The Miles Davis Quintet is represented by their very first recording, of 1955 vintage. John Coltrane is on tenor, Red Garland on piano, with Paul Chambers' bass and Philly Joe Jones' drums. At this time these musicians were little more than promising unknowns to most of the country's jazz fans. The LP is made up of four pop songs and three jazz originals and its musical importance cannot be overestimated. By the way, the sound quality on all these releases is quite good and the stereo convincing.

AHMED ABDUL-MALIK / Sounds of Africa — NEW JAZZ Stereo NJ 8282:

Abdul-Malik, basically a talented bassist, has been trying to integrate various types of foreign music into jazz, with varying degrees of success. In addition to the stringed instrument of the Near East known as the oud which Abdul-Malik plays on this recording, the "darubeka" and various sorts of African drums are heard.

The dozen musicians with him add more unique sounds to the group with cello, violin, clarinet and flute besides the more usual jazz trumpets and saxes. Some of the tracks are in the South African style known as "high life." For the more commercial market, there is even an African Bossa Nova thrown in. All in all an unusual and varied jazz LP.

For Seasonal Color, It's The Berries

In the mildness of a Marin fall, few trees and shrubs color up with the autumnal hues of colder climates. We have them, to be sure, but in nothing like the quantity of, say, New England or Ohio.

For that reason we look elsewhere to find our seasonal color bearers.

And find them we do in the wonderful world of berries—pyracanthas, especially, but also cotoneasters and such lesser lights as the barberries. When used in quantity, these more than make up for the lack of foliage color which many a transplanted eastern gardener misses when he moves to California.

FOR VIVID color, the pyracantha family is our first choice, and for fall we select the Laland variety above the others. This is the pyracantha with the bright orange berries which make such a splash of seasonal color you really need nothing else. Here are the warm tones of a pumpkin in the field or persimmons in an orchard.

Plant more than one shrub of the Laland pyracantha, and you won't miss the more traditional forms of fall color at all.

For added interest, you might try this beauty in espaliered form, which nurserymen can supply you with, or in a tree form, which is also to be found in our nurseries.

LESS AUTUMNAL, perhaps, but nonetheless beautiful, are the other pyracanthas which range in berry color from orange-red to deep red, the latter of which are especially appreciated during the Christmas season. They all are colorful from early fall until after the New Year, which is something you never get in colder climates, however colorful their falling foliage is.

Among the other pyracanthas, look for Kasan, an orange-red variety; Wyatt, another orange-red; Graber, Rosedale and Victory, all red-berried forms. These too, are often available as espaliers or as small trees.

One of the most useful additions to the pyracantha family has been the Santa Cruz variety—a prostrate, or semi-prostrate form, which makes it an excellent choice for ground cover or bank planting. The berries are large and bright red, and you can imagine the effect when you cover a complete hillside with them: Berries, berries, everywhere.

ASIDE FROM pyracanthas, we rely on cotoneasters for color in fall.

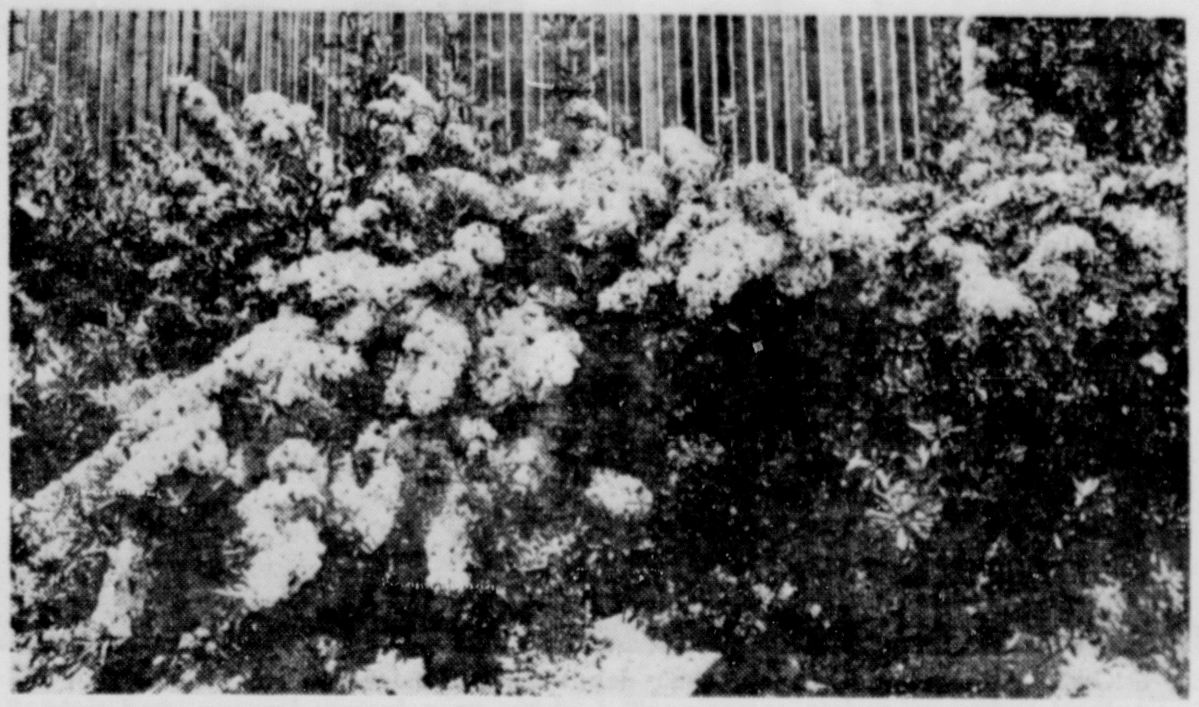
These are more subdued colors and better suited to background planting, where they won't clash with whatever is planted in front of them. Cotoneasters make excellent screens in their taller forms and the prostrate varieties are fine for covering a bank or filling a parkway. The berry color is primarily red, but orange is also to be found.

One of the less familiar cotoneasters and one of the best for fall is the Ward's cotoneaster. An upright grower with long, arching branches, it not only bears seasonally beautiful orange berries, but provides an added attraction in its colorful foliage. A deciduous cotoneaster, it sheds its leaves, which oblige by coloring up beautifully before dropping off.

FOR BACKGROUNDS, Silverleaf cotoneaster is a traditional favorite and for a better show close in, the Red Clusterberry can be most appealing, especially when pruned out to reveal the interesting trunk and branch patterns against a wall. The berries on this latter are probably the best in the family—big and red and carried in attractive clusters.

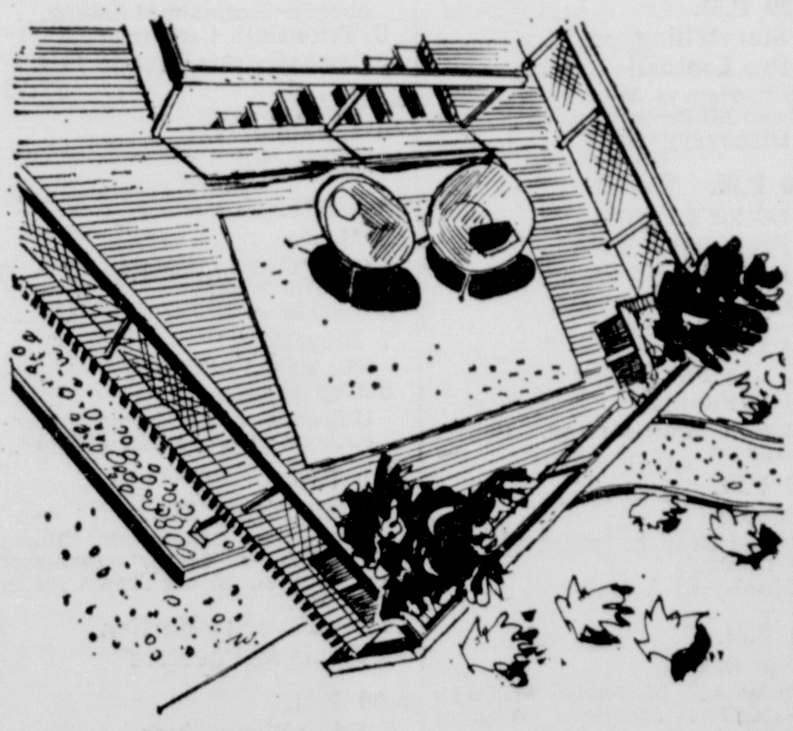
Lower-growing cotoneasters, suitable for ground covers and bank planting are the Rock cotoneaster and Necklace cotoneaster.

There are a dozen or more members of the family, however, so don't stop with these. Check the others at a local nursery.



AMONG ALL THE berrying shrubs, it is difficult to find one that is more obliging than the pyracantha. If you want it to spread horizontally, so be it. Or grow upright to medium height or tall or flatten itself against a wall — just say the word when you are choosing the variety. You can even specify whether you'd prefer orange instead of the more usual fire-engine red berries. Agreeability extends even further since the pyracantha is known for its ability to thrive on neglect. (California Assn. of Nurserymen Photo)

HANDYMAN'S CORNER

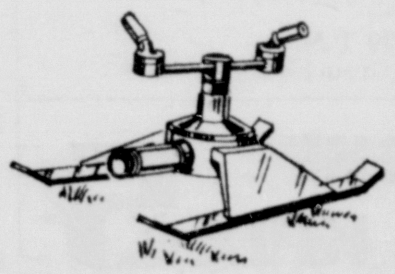


WHY MAKE A lounge deck ordinary when it can be extraordinary? To do the trick, substitute an eye-pleasing geometric shape like this trapezium for the common rectangle. Framing and deck boards of Douglas fir lumber are installed in essentially the same manner as for the ordinary rectangle. If deck is elevated, add a stairway to garden level for complete outdoor accessibility.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Tuberous begonias will continue their bloom into fall if you feed them regularly with fish fertilizer and spray them for mildew.
- All container-grown ornamentals may be planted now — even those which will soon be losing their leaves.
- Rework compacted soils this fall, adding humus and chemical or organic soil conditioners.
- The earliest camellias — the sasanqua varieties — will soon show color. Shop for them in bloom.
- Give chrysanthemums a final feeding if their buds are still not showing color. Stake the plants securely, if you haven't already.



SKILSAW

A low cost quality saw for home workshop jobs. Cuts 2" lumber at 90°, 1" stock at 45° bevel. Lightweight, easy to handle. Powerful motor and high-torque gears.
